'Gate Crasher' Under Observation

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A man who crashed his car through the White House gates Wednesday and threatened to blow himself up within 20 feet of the North Portico had been known to the Secret Service previously, authorities said.

Marshall Hill Fields, whose late father was a U.S. diplomat, was being held at a mental hospital for observation today after keeping police and Secret Service men at bay for four hours with what looked like explosives tied to his body.

"The Secret Service would have taken a lot stronger action if the First Family was at home," said agent George Cosper. "It's Christmas Day. We felt some compassion to save the man."

Agents with high-powered weapons hid in nearby bushes and behind pillars of the portico during the incident, but no shots were fired.

Fields, 25, surrendered quietly and the bombs turned out to be highway flares. Wires hanging from his black gloves were harmless, as were three packages he set down on the ground near him.

Fields, dressed in Arab garb, speaking Arabic and English and claiming he was "wired to dynamite," finally gave up after a black radio station broadcast his demand to meet with the Pakistani ambassador. The demand was not met. For the preceding two hours, he negotiated face-to-face from 15 feet with Secret Service official George Drescher, who said much of Fields' conversation was about Islam.

Secret Service spokesman William Hawthorne said Fields had been "of interest" to the agency before Wednesday, but he would not elaborate.

The Washington Post quoted a Secret Service spokesman as saying "he was of protective interest to us. He came to our attention because we thought he could be a possible problem towards the people we protect."

Fields' father, Marshall L. Fields, was an official of the Agency for International Development and had served in several Arabic-speaking countries.

The elder Fields died of cancer in May.

The Fields' live in a middle income neighborhood in Silver Spring, Md., a suburban area where Fields recently worked as a taxi driver. He identified himself as Abdul Rahim.

The Post said at least three news media had received material from Fields indicating he planned to renounce his citizenship on Dec. 25 and seek political asylum in a third world country.

The Secret Service committed Fields to the maximum security ward of St. Elizabeth's hospital for observation, with no charges filed against him.

President Ford, vacationing with his family in Vail, Colo., was informed of the incident. He said he would not "pass judgment" now on the adequacy of White House security.

It was the second time in 10 months that the White House grounds were forcibly breached. On Feb. 17, an Army private stole a helicopter from Ft. Meade, Md., and buzzed the White House, finally landing on the South Lawn in a hail of shotgun fire.

Wednesday's incident began at 7 a.m. when Fields, driving west in his two-door brown Chevrolet, started to make what White House guards thought was a U-turn.

Instead he rammed the car through the iron northwest gate and drove up to within 20 feet of the mansion's door.

The drama ended as Christmas bells from a church across the street tolled joyous music and the radio station broadcast his demand. Fields then waved a white flag, dismantled his devices and surrendered.

Prompted by the Christmas Day security breach, federal officials responsible for assuring presidential safety have indicated that a full-scale review will be undertaken of White House protection.

Treasury Secretary William E. Simon and top officials of the Secret Service and Executive Protective Service indicated that an incident Wednesday when a man crashed his car through the Northwest gate and onto the White House grounds was unavoidable.

But they said that the incident will be reviewed in relationship to overall security at the presidential mansion.

DARWIN'S DEVASTATED MAIN STREET

(UPI)

DARWIN, Australia (UPI)

The Australian government today began a massive airborne evacuation of survivors of the cyclone that devastated this northern port city Christmas Day and killed dozens of persons. Thousands of others were homeless and without food and water.

The official death toll remained at 44, Rex Patterson, Minister for Northern Development, said today. Some estimates ran as high as 80 and Patterson said, "the final death toll will not be known until rescuers find out what is under the rubble."

Darwin is without electricity, water, fresh food and sewerage. Authorities estimated that 90 per cent of the city of 40,000 was destroyed or damaged and that at least 20,000 houses were hit when tropical cyclone Tracy struck on Wednesday with 165 mile per hour winds.

Patterson, whose ministry encompasses the vast area of the Northern Territory, announced that at least 10,000 persons would be evacuated from the cyclone-battered city in order to "thin out" the population to cope with medical and food problems.

"Everyone here is a mouth to feed, we've got to thin out," Patterson said in the first radio broadcast from Darwin since Cyclone Tracy struck. "It would be intolerable for women and children to stay in Darwin for the wet season when thousands of homes will have to be rebuilt," he said.

An Australia-wide airlift of food, clothing, medical supplies and emergency equipment started moving out of three major air bases across Australia, while three naval ships, the aircraft carrier Melbourne, heavy destroyer Hobart and the frigate Stuart, sailed from Sydney for the 2,000-mile trip. They were due here on New Year's Day. Other smaller vessels were en route to help rebuild the demolished port.

Medical authorities in Darwin began an extensive inoculation campaign of residents against disease. Volunteers were called for for garbage collection and a giant cleanup of the city.

The U.S. Embassy in Canberra supplied a gigantic U.S. Air Force Starliner transport plane to assist in rescue and evacuation operations. Defense Minister Lance Barnard said Australia's three airline operators, including the national line QANTAS, would all use available aircraft to help evacuate people from Darwin. Britain sent planes from Singapore to help.

In the first flight out, a Hercules transport took 18 injured survivors, including three children in critical condition, to Sydney for emergency operations.

"Darwin is devastated," one of the survivors said. "It's gone. There is nothing but rubble and a few half-demolished buildings."

CIA Spy Case... A Resignation

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The CIA's counterintelligence chief says he is resigning because "higher authorities" wanted him to leave after allegations were made that the agency spied on antiwar groups.

Central Intelligence Agency veteran James Angleton, sounding distraught and contradictory in several telephone conversations, Wednesday told UPI he did not know of CIA work against Americans living in the United States.

He had previously said published allegations of such activities were "mainly true."

President Ford, on a skiing vacation in Colorado, has asked Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger, who is also his national security adviser, to forward a report on the allegations published in Sunday's New York Times.

The 50-page report, prepared by CIA chief William E. Colby, was dispatched Wednesday by special Air Force flight to Ford in Vail, Colo.

The Times charged the CIA illegally spied on and collected dossiers on as many as 10,000 Americans.

Richard Helms, CIA director when the alleged operations took place in the late 1950s and 1960s, "categorically denied" the charges Tuesday in a message to Kissinger from his present post as U.S. ambassador in Iran.

Helms was reported vacationing somewhere in Europe.

Angleton told UPI Tuesday he was resigning because of CIA "police state" activities but retracted some of his remarks Wednesday, telephoning UPI to say he would like to get some things "straightened out" from previous talks.

"My resignation was reluctant," he said. "I was not pushed."

"The point I'm making is that the (Times) story was highly exaggerated and as far as I'm concerned I had no knowledge of any activities of such by the agency but I can't speak for the agency."

He said he did not recall saying Tuesday that he did have knowledge of alleged illegal CIA domestic activities.

Why, then, did he resign if he insisted he wasn't "pushed?"

"Let's put it this way," Angleton said. "I was asked by higher authorities."

Angleton suggested contacting former FBI agent Sam Papich in New Mexico about domestic espionage activities. "Sam knows," said Angleton.

Papich, now executive director of New Mexico's organized crime prevention commission, said in Albuquerque there were moves afoot to destroy the FBI and CIA.

County Gains Promotion Grant

KINGSTON A matching $6,403 grant for the purpose of planning and promoting advertising designed to stimulate and increase the volume of tourist trade here has been received by Ulster County from the state according to Peter J. Savago, (R-Dist. 8), chairman of the Ulster County Legislature.

The application for the grant, made by the county's Public Relations and Resort Information Office was approved several weeks ago and the check has been received by County Treasurer Fred H. DuBois.

The application filed by Public Relations Director Albert J. Cawein has been allocated toward the publication of 25,000 winter vacation skiing brochures and media ads in metropolitan New York newspapers promoting the skiing season, according to Legislator Eugene K. Noe (R-Dist. 8), chairman of Ulster County Publicity Committee.

The grant will also provide funds for the publicity committee's spring advertising schedule including metropolitan newspapers and at least two national magazines.

A sum of $200,000 was appropriated by the New York State Legislature authorizing the State Department of Commerce to match funds expended by recognized tourist promotion agencies promoting tourist travel, resorts and vacation business in the state under the New York State Tourist Promotion Act.

The Public Relations Department has already advised the new Ulster County legislators of the 1975 State Legislature of its interest in continuation of the Tourist Promotion Act and because travel is a $4 billion industry in New York State, suggested that the appropriation for 1975 be increased to $500,000. Favorable comments have already been received by area legislators indicating their support of the 1975 program, Cawein said.

Conference at Paltz College

NEW PALTZ The Multi-County Community Development Corporation (MCCDC), the regional organization which coordinates information and provides media training relating to all federally funded feeding programs, hosted a regional conference recently at the State University College at New Paltz.

Among those considering the problem of communications in the Mid-Hudson Region were elected officials, representatives of community action programs, the Office of Economic Opportunity regional representative and members of the MCCDC board and staff.

MCCDC, which recently completed a survey of federally funded feeding programs, said they are not being properly utilized indicating in part an inadequate communications network in the area. MCCDC has developed a project to meet public service information needs in the Mid-Hudson Region, a resource center capable of furnishing research, training, and technical assistance to local individuals and groups. The project will be flexible enough to be transferred to other areas with similar needs, MCCDC officials said.

Court Officer

KINGSTON James A. Fitzgerald Sr., of Ulster Park, has been appointed chief court officer at the Ulster County Court House, effective Jan. 1.

The designation is one of the first to be announced for 1975 as the result of the election of Thomas Mayone as the new sheriff to Ulster County.

Fitzgerald replaces Edward Smith in the post.

A retired supervisor for Lever Brothers at Edgewater, N.J., Fitzgerald has been coming to Ulster County annually since 1950 and has been a permanent resident since 1968.

He was president of Esopus Senior Citizens for two years and also served as the organization's vice president for a year.

Skyjacker Captured, Threatened to Crash Jet

ROME (UPI) — "Are you sure we are over Rome?" the nervous, unshaven hijacker asked. He then ordered the pilot to crash the jumbo jet into the Italian capital.

But the crew of the Air India plane, carrying 155 persons, overpowered the air pirate and landed the Boeing 747 safely at Rome's Leonardo da Vinci Airport.

Airport police arrested the hijacker, identified as Jozif Homolov, 30, a Czech-born Canadian. Officials said he was mostly incoherent but made clear his motives were not political.

The drama began over the Mediterranean Wednesday morning, during an Air India flight from Bombay to New York with stops in Beirut, Rome, Paris and London.

The long-haired hijacker, wearing a stained green sweater, burst into the cockpit of the jetliner as the plane flew over Athens.

The pilot, Capt. A.M. Kapur, said the hijacker threatened him with a small pocket knife and said there was a bomb aboard the jet.

"Do whatever I say or else I will destroy everything," the hijacker was quoted as saying. "Carry me to Rome. Don't change altitude."

Kapur, a husky, mustachioed man of 50, said he pressed a hijack signal alerting control towers in the area but did not tell the passengers.

Homolov, nervously refusing to sit or to eat, rejected attempts by the pilot and a Czech-speaking stewardess to question him during the flying time to Rome — more than one hour.

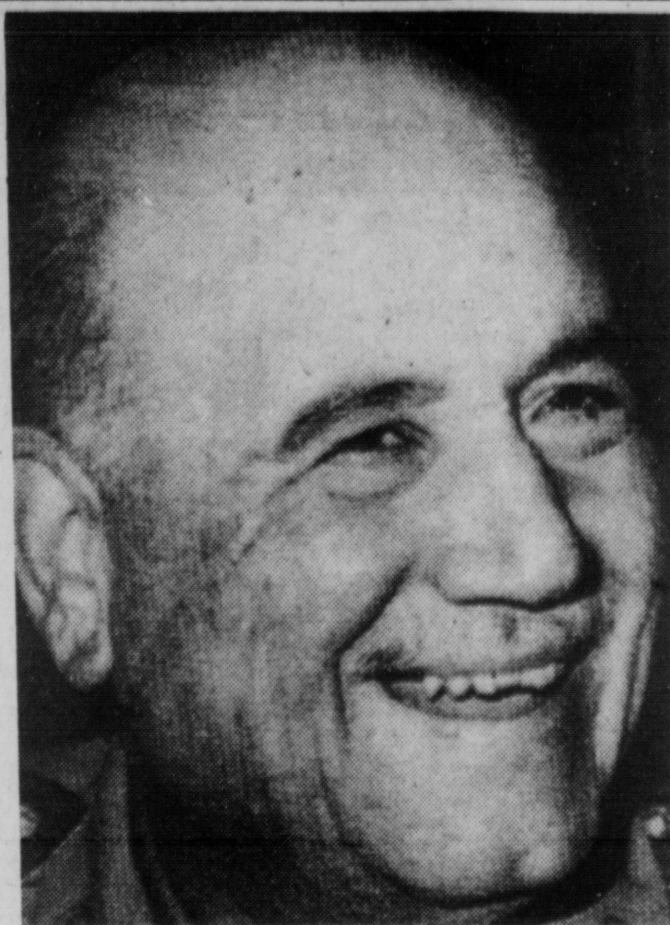

"Are you sure we are over Rome?" he said as the aircraft circled over the Italian capital. "Show me St. Peter's."

He ordered the pilot to put on full speed and crash into the city, but the copilot signaled two stewards and the crew managed to jump the hijacker.

Homolov, his head bandaged from the beating, flashed a "V" sign at reporters as he was taken from the jet. Police said he had a Toronto-Bombay roundtrip ticket and 20 counterfeit Canadian $100 bills.

He was transferred to Rome's Regina Coeli Prison on charges of kidnaping, hijacking and entering Italy with counterfeit money. No bomb was found on the plane.

Police in Hamilton, Ont., said Homolov arrived in Canada six years ago and worked as a carpenter. He was scheduled to appear in City Court next month on a drug possession charge, police said.

Military Funeral Planned For Egyptian War Minister

CAIRO (UPI) — Egypt plans a hero's funeral Friday for War Minister Ahmed Ismail, the field marshal who commanded Egyptian forces during last year's Middle East conflict.

Ismail, the architect of Egypt's surprise assault across the Suez Canal at the start of the war, died Wednesday in London at the age of 57. A special Egyptian plane brought his body back to Cairo Wednesday night.

The semi-official newspaper Al Ahras said Ismail died of lung cancer. He had been undergoing medical treatment in London since last month.

President Anwar Sadat hailed Ismail as a "hero whose name will forever be linked with the glories of Egyptian military might and the heroic feats of the great crossing to victory."

In the "great crossing" at the start of the 1973 Middle East War, Egyptian troops crossed the Suez Canal on pontoon bridges and stormed Israel's Bar Lev defense fortifications along the waterway's east bank.

Government sources said Ismail's body would remain at the armed forces hospital in suburban Maadi until Friday's state. Tens of thousands of persons are expected to take part in the funeral procession.

Born in 1917, Ismail was commissioned an officer at the age of 21 on graduating from the Cairo Military Academy. He saw combat two years later, serving with British forces in the Western Desert during World War II.

Ismail, who received advanced military training in Britain and the Soviet Union, participated in all four Middle East wars since the birth of Israel in 1948.

In October, 1972, Sadat appointed him war minister and commander-in-chief of the armed forces, with the specific job of preparing for war.

Egypt's armed forces took Israeli's troops by surprise in October, 1973, attacking on Yom Kippur, the solemn Jewish fast day.

The Egyptians quickly overran most of the Bar Lev line, but the advance slowed in a few days when Israel mobilized its armed forces. Israel took the offensive near the end of the war, crossing the canal to hit the Egyptians from behind.

Egypt termed the 17-day war a "victory" and promoted Ismail to deputy premier for his leadership during the conflict.

Inmates Agree to Pact

LORTON, Va. (UPI) — Rebellious maximum security inmates holding nine Lorton Reformatory guards hostage today reached tentative agreement on terms for ending their 12 hour siege.

The agreement hinged on a guarantee that no reprisals would be directed against the inmates involved in the uprising and that none would be transferred from Lorton to another maximum security institution.

The inmates negotiated with officials unaware that one of the instigators was shot and killed.

Marion Strickland, superintendent of Lorton, said agreement on several issues of contention was reached about 7 a.m. EST and that a courier had been sent with the pact to the suburban Washington home of Norman Carlson, director of the U.S. Bureau of Prisons, for his signature.

In addition to assurances that no inmates would be transferred from Lorton to other maximum security institutions, the agreement called for better visiting hours and restoration of inmate furloughs, canceled recently by Attorney General William B. Saxbe.

Authorities said about 90 to 95 prisoners took 10 guards hostage after the escape attempt about 7 p.m. Christmas night when about a dozen inmates rushed the prison wall. Lorton spokesmen said at least two men and possibly four made it through a guard tower, drawing one shot from a guard.

That shot killed one of the men, whose body was found about six hours later in a stolen getaway several miles from the prison, according to local police and prison spokesmen.

At about the same time the body was found, one of the hostages was released as a "good faith gesture," prison spokesman Bill Plaut said.

The jail, operated by the District of Columbia is in suburban Virginia, about 30 miles south of Washington.

As talks went on through the night in the mess hall, where about 15 inmate negotiators and four prison officials sat around a table, there was no mention of the killing.

Seven reporters and about 15 members of inmates' families watched, including a prisoner's sister who took part in the discussions.

During the negotiations, the hostages were held by the remaining 70 to 75 inmates in a basement.

A One-Week Sentence

MELBOURNE, Australia (UPI) — A magistrate's court today sentenced British legislator John Stonehouse to a week in jail for entering Australia illegally.

Australian Immigration Minister Clyde Cameron announced plans to use the period to consider a petition by Stonehouse to remain in Australia.

The former British cabinet minister, arrested in Melbourne after disappearing last month from a Miami hotel, appealed to Magistrate Norman McCable for permission to begin a new life in Australia.

"I have received more understanding from Australians in the last two days than I have received in the last two years in England," he said.

Authorities quoted Stonehouse as saying he was being blackmailed in Britain and had lost his personal assets by putting money into an abortive bank failure.

Police said Stonehouse obtained his false passport by inquiring at London hospitals about persons his age who had recently died.

Authorities said he then applied for a birth certificate in one of the names, Joseph Arthur Markham. He used the document to get a passport, police said.

Stonehouse, 49, was picked up by police Christmas Eve and charged with illegally entering Australia. His lawyer, J. A. Patterson, said Stonehouse wanted to become a permanent resident. Police said they suspected at first that Stonehouse was Lord "Lucky" Lucan, who disappeared from London Nov. 7 following the murder of his children's nurse.

Wilson Grants Yule Clemency To Five Convicted Murderers

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — Christmas clemency was granted on Tuesday to five men convicted of murders, including one who has already served more than 17 years and whose original death sentence was commuted by former Gov. W. Averell Harriman.

In commuting the sentence of William A. Wynn, Gov. Malcolm Wilson noted that Harriman indicated when he took him off death row that further commutation might be warranted at a future date.

Wynn, now 34, was convicted in 1957 in a robbery-murder in Queens in which he had served as a lookout and did not actually participate in the slaying. An inmate at the Wallkill Correctional Facility, Wynn has earned a high school diploma and hopes to work in optometry, Wilson said.

The others whose sentences were commuted, thereby making them eligible for parole next month, were: —Matthew J. Cavanaugh, 68, sentenced to 20 years to life in 1965 in the stabbing death of Marcia Holt in Troy in August of 1964. Cavanaugh, now on medical leave from the Fishkill Correctional Facility, is seriously ill with heart disease. His wife, from whom he was estranged at the time of the slaying, has expressed a strong desire to care for her husband, Wilson said.

—Juan Cruz, 33, sentenced to 20 years to life in 1960 in a youth gang slaying in Manhattan in August of 1959. Cruz, a gang leader, fired into a crowd in an effort to avenge the death of a gang member.

The shooting resulted in the death of a young girl — and Cruz and Alfredo Garcia, another gang member, were convicted of the crime. Garcia was granted clemency last year and is now on parole. He has been serving his sentence at the Auburn Correctional Facility.

—Manuel Joseph Fernandez, 30, sentenced to 20 years to life in 1963 for the May, 1962, killing of a furrier during an armed robbery in Queens. Fernandez, now in the Eastern New York Correctional Facility at Napanoch, has earned a high school diploma and is currently assigned as a dental technician.

—Alfredo Ortiz, 28, sentenced to 20 years to life in 1966 in the 1964 stabbing death of an elderly man during a Bronx robbery. Ortiz served as a lookout for his brother, Carlos, and two other men during the crime and did not participate in the stabbing. Now serving his sentence at Auburn, Ortiz has earned his high school diploma and is an accomplished artist, Wilson said.

4-Course Landscape Program Resumes Jan. 6 at UCCC

STONE RIDGE

The Landscape Development and Maintenance program at Ulster County Community College (UCCC) will start classes for the Spring Semester on Jan. 6.

David Smith, the program's coordinator, said classes are starting early so the students will complete their studies by the middle of April in time to be available for employment this spring.

It is possible for students to begin this one-year diploma program in January. Interested persons may register

Jan. 6 or may contact Smith at UCCC before that date for information.

The four courses being offered in the Spring Semester include General Horticultural Technology II, Experience in Ground Maintenance II, Lawn and Garden Equipment Maintenance, and Plant Production and Protection.

The Landscape Development and Maintenance program at UCCC is designed to have something of value for both the career oriented student and the novice whose interests pertain to his or her own property. It combines informal lectures and practical training.

The UCCC campus, which contains a greenhouse, is used as a laboratory where the student can gain experience in landscape design, use of pesticides, turf grass management, planting, maintenance, pruning, plant identification and basic greenhouse skills.

Instruction is based as much as possible on the interests of the students. Smith works closely with individual students, following their own particular interests, while still remaining within the basic framework of the program.

Students who complete the program are equipped with an excellent basic background to enter into one of the many different aspects of horticultural work. They will be qualified to seek employment in nurseries and garden centers, parks and recreation areas, greenhouses, golf courses and landscape services.

PROFESSOR ORTON EXAMINES HOLLY

(UPI)

Professor's New Holly Too Late for This Year

NEW BRUNSWICK, N.J. (UPI) — A Rutgers University professor says he finally has developed a glossier, greener, female variety of American holly with brilliant red berries, but it came too late for Christmas this year.

In fact, it will probably be several years before it's available in large quantities.

But when it is, Professor Elwin R. Orton says his new strain of holly will meet a yuletide demand commercial growers cannot now fill.

He says it will be a direct competitor with the traditional English holly, the type usually pictured on Christmas cards.

English holly grows primarily in the temperate regions of Oregon, while American holly can grow in colder regions and survive hot summers. But it is considered the less attractive bush.

Orton's strain, with its bright red berries, grows in a densely packed cone-shaped tree. He says, "It has the deepest, greenest glossiest leaves that I have ever seen."

Although it took Orton 14 years to breed the strain, its history goes back to the 1947, when a small number of holly enthusiasts in New Jersey, Delaware and Maryland were combing the woods looking for the glossiest leaves.

Rutgers researchers selected their samples from that batch, and one of the varieties, called the "Jersey Knight," has gained a reputation among gardeners as a dense, glossy, ornamental house tree.

There is only one problem — the Jersey Knight is a male, and therefore has no red berries.

It has taken 14 years for Orton and his colleagues to successfully mate the Jersey Knight with enough female holly trees to produce a dense, glossy-leaf tree which does have berries. The new bush lacks a formal name.

Although holly is used mostly for hedges and ornamental yard trees, a large amount is harvested wild or in orchards for Christmas sprays and wreaths.

The largest producer of American holly is Daniel D. Fenton, who grows the wild variety in an orchard in Millville, N.J.

He says he will have no problem selling his 100,000 pounds of Christmas holly harvest. "I don't think I have enough holly to supply the city of New York alone," he said. "We don't even attempt to sell in the Midwest."

Orton said his new variety will make it possible for people in most parts of the country to grow holly trees in their yards and take cuttings at Christmas.

He said American holly can even thrive in urban environments because it is resistant to air pollution.

An Activist Role

It is hoped that the new vice president will be given a substantive role in the Ford administration.

President Ford has indicated that Nelson Rockefeller will be a full time partner with heavy involvement in domestic policymaking. Of course, presidents always talk about making their vice presidents partners, but they very often end up as nothing more than office boys. President Ford has a tremendous opportunity to elevate the position of the vice president. And there is no doubt that Rockefeller can make a significant contribution to the nation on the domestic front.

However, it appears possible that politics may tie the hands of the new vice president and relegate his duties to the largely ceremonial job of presiding over the Senate. This would be unfortunate.

The President's organizer-in-chief, Donald Rumsfeld has already hinted that politics could be a key factor in the role Rockefeller will play in the administration. He says giving the new vice president heavy involvement in the Ford Administration is "not as simple as it sounds."

The ambitious Rumsfeld has just spent months reorganizing the President's staff and it has been done in such a way to enhance his own powers. Observers feel that neither Rumsfeld's interests nor the President's would be served by a free-wheeling vice president repeatedly upstaging the Chief Executive. Rumsfeld does not want Rockefeller to outshine the President so that the vice president would be the man calling the shots in 1976.

It is hoped that Mr. Ford feels politically secure enough to let Rockefeller share the limelight especially if it will help to solve the severe economic crisis that is the main concern of the American public.

Theodore Roosevelt once called the vice presidency a "stepping stone to oblivion." It is hoped that President Ford will make Mr. Rockefeller the first activist vice president in the history of this country.

Homely Space Problems

One of the ingratiating things about space exploration is that it is not all a matter of computerized flight plans and the like. These aspects of ventures in the solar system play a dominant role, of course. How could it be otherwise when scientists must be able to say with confidence that at a given hour a few years hence this or that spacecraft will swing within 22,649 miles of Z planet? But more homely problems must be dealt with, too.

Such homely problems, for example, as whether Pioneer Saturn will run into a rock in the neighborhood of the ringed planet sometime in 1979. Or whether two Viking spacecraft scheduled to land on Mars in 1976 may sink practically out of sight in deep pockets of Martian dust.

These are lively possibilities. There is simply no way, in the present state of technology, to guide Pioneer Saturn through the maze of big and little rock chunks whirling about the fourth planet from the sun. The potential for disaster is great: even a tiny fragment, if it hit just the right spot, could disable the little spacecraft. Pioneer Saturn will just have to take its chances, with ground control hoping for the kind of luck that got it and Pioneer 10 safely through the asteroid belt en route to Jupiter.

As for the two Vikings which will be launched next summer and are destined to touch down on Mars in 1976, their success is a chancy thing. Some spots on Mars are too hard; a landing there would be risky, and digging tools could not function. Many other spots are too soft, dust bowls some scientists think may be 10 to 20 feet deep.

Thus finding just the right landing points at the last moment will be a dramatic enterprise. At that time, and later when Pioneer Saturn enters the ring zone around its target planet, there will be much finger crossing among the space teams back on Earth.

WASHINGTON—From his hospital bed, Wilbur Mills has sent us word that he has experienced "blackouts" since his 1973 back operation, that he has "absolutely no memory" of his escapade on a Boston burlesque stage but that he is now beginning to feel like his old self.

Washington Merry-Go-Round Wilbur Mills... A Very Sick Man

Because he has been forbidden by his doctors from talking to newsmen, he asked a fellow patient at Bethesda Naval Hospital, Rep. Walter Jones, D-N.C., to deliver the message to us.

Jones reported that Mills had been irrational when he entered the hospital. "Doctors have assured me that he was not responsible for some of his actions," said the North Carolina congressman.

This was confirmed by Speaker Carl Albert, who persuaded Mills to be hospitalized. Albert told us that Mills came to his office and babbled incoherently. "You're sick!" the Speaker interrupted him. Mills halted his rambling chatter. "I'm terribly sick," he agreed, in a sad, soft voice.

But the deposed House Ways and Means chairman is now recovering. "I am happy to report that he is rapidly becoming the old Wilbur,"

Jones said. "He is coming out from the shadows into the sunshine."

Mills has discussed his fall from power, according to Jones, with no bitterness. He is "relieved" to relinquish his powerful chairmanship and may also give up his House seat. "He has not made a definite decision," said Jones.

Striptease dancer Annabel Battistella, the Argentine Firecracker who brought Mills front-page notoriety, has not been in touch with him at the hospital, reported Jones. But Mills' wife Polly spends several hours with him every day and takes his pajamas home for washing.

Mills used to tell his colleagues that his father always advised him: "You can't do a day's work if you stay out all night at parties."

For 35 years on Capitol Hill, Mills heeded his father's counsel. The congressman from Kensett, Ark., shunned Washington night life. He stayed away from cocktail parties. He even turned down invitations to White House socials.

"I remember seeing Wilbur at a Washington reception only once," Speaker Albert told us. Jones recalled flying on the same chartered plane with Mills on a festive occasion when drinks were served. "Wilbur asked for a Scotch and water, and didn't finish the first drink," said Jones.

Mills developed a reputation on Capitol Hill for hard work and political skill. He took the Internal Revenue Code home for bedside reading. He ran the Ways and Means Committee as his private fiefdom. He became probably the most powerful member of Congress.

Then in the early hours of October 7, the Argentine Firecracker clawed Mills' face, bolted from his Mark IV Continental and splashed into the tidal basin. Washington has been buzzing ever since with the question: What has happened to Mills?

To find the answer, we have spoken to his closest associates, the doctors at the naval hospital and to sources on the seamy side of Washington. My associate Les Whitten, posing as a New York swinger, infiltrated the Washington striptease set. We have now carefully pieced together the story of Mills' fall from power. It began in July 1973, when a degenerative disc in his back began causing him excruciating pain. Surgery repaired the disc, but he never regained his health. Visitors in his Capitol office sometimes found him lying flat on his back in pain.

He took painkilling drugs and began to drink. The mixture, apparently, was explosive. Sources close to Mills confided to us that he had a "Binge problem." When he started drinking, they said, he would lose control. This was one reason, they suggested, that he stayed away from cocktail parties.

At Bethesda Naval Hospital, three medical sources confirmed to us that alcohol was a factor in Mills' hospitalization. He was also suffering, they said, from physical and mental exhaustion.

After his back operation, Mills began showing up at striptease joints. Sources who saw him said on several occasions he became "extremely intoxicated" and "very rowdy." One employee said he once had to help Mills to his car "because he was so intoxicated he could barely stand up."

When he had a few drinks under his belt, Mills carried on flirtations not only with the Argentine Firecracker but with other strippers, reportedly including one known as the Peruvian Pistol.

We were unable to locate any Peruvian Pistol, but Les Whitten spoke for three hours with another striptease dancer who had been friendly with Mills. Whitten verified that Mills provided his telephone number to her on a piece of paper. But when Mills was called in the daytime, he would not come to the phone.

Our sources say Mills' wife accompanied him to the striptease dive out of desperation, because she didn't know what else to do. Sometimes the intoxicated Mills would flirt with the performers in front of his wife.

It was clear to those who know Mills that he was not himself. His debased behavior was so uncharacteristic that they are convinced he was a very sick man. The doctors are now giving him tests to determine whether he back medication contributed to his breakdown.

Playing With Torture

By William F. Buckley Jr.

Those who despise torture as much as we all should ought to resent it when charges of torture are used for the sake of advancing a political movement. I have in mind, for instance, the recent notoriety given to the case of Miss Amy Conger, also known as Mrs. O'Flaherty, also suspected, by Chilean Intelligence, of being Mata Hari.

But first to what allegedly happened to Miss Conger, when she was arrested in mid-October by the Chileans in Santiago where she had been teaching English. Here is how (only) Jack Anderson (could have) put it:

"The young university instructor was threatened with death, forced to ride with breasts bared through the streets and thrown on a bed where she was menaced with rape. She was subjected to obscene questioning, catapulted down stairs while blindfolded, deprived of water, denied sleep and force to stand until she almost collapsed." That and quite a bit more.

Now this report of Mr. Anderson jolted the country—quite naturally so—and probably had a direct bearing on the vote in the Congress denying scheduled aid of one sort or another to the Chilean government. This column is not a general defense of the current government of Chile, merely an inquiry into the specific allegation.

I reached the State Department official in Santiago who extricated Miss Conger from the Chilean authorities and asked him whether she had complained of being tortured. He answered no. She had complained, he said, of being detained in the first place, of being handcuffed, of being blindfolded, and of not having been permitted to call the consul. I asked whether it was fair to say that "the American consulate denies that Miss Conger complained of the sadistic treatment described in Mr. Jack Anderson's column." He replied in the affirmative.

I reached the Chilean desk of the State Department on Washington, D.C. and asked the official in charge whether the State Department had officially protested the Chileans' failure to permit Miss Conger to telephone the consulate as soon as she was detained, a right affirmed by the Vienna Convention of 1963. He replied that a protest had indeed gone out, and that the Chilean government had already proffered its apologies, and had promised to look into the matter in detail, and report on the reasons why Miss Conger was denied access to the telephone; and, presumably, to describe measures the government will take to keep it from happening again.

Meanwhile, the ambassador in Washington wrote both to Jack Anderson and to the Washington Post. If the ambassador is to be believed—and he invites independent corroboration of the matter—Miss Conger had been behaving in a most unlawful way while in Chile. She was, though rather informally, married to an Argentinian revolutionary. In Chile, she moved from residence to residence, apparently for the purpose of providing safe houses for young militant Miristas, members of a terrorist counter-revolutionary—or, if your prefer, counter-counter revolutionary—oufit.

As for the condition of the jails—as distinguished from the alleged acts of torture—they are concededly deplorable. The civil attaché of the Chilean embassy in Washington wrote to Mr. Anderson that "our jails are outdated, with almost all of them dating to as far back as 1891, and the current Chilean Government does not intend to build any special jails for the exclusive purpose of keeping political prisoners, as is the case in Cuba, the Soviet Union, or other countries. I know the Chilean jails rather well, and I should, since I was arrested 28 times and sent to prison five times during Salvador Allende's Administration, on account of my activities as a journalist. In those days the prisoners were fed with two loaves of bread and two mugs of hot water daily. Yet I have never read any comments about the abuses against your Chilean colleagues in your column."

There's a little bit of tu quoque there, but I guess if you or I had written the letter, it would have been difficult to resist.

But to make the point finally: torture is itself callousing. In Brazil, where there is little doubt that torture is widespread, it is also probably true that much of it is locally inspired—a kind of black market torture, disapproved by central regulation. By the same token, it is callousing to read about torture while never quite knowing whether the accounts of it are a) accurate; or b) fictitious, and politically-inspired. Those who give currency to accounts of torture of this kind are friends not of the tortured, but of the torturers.

Blowing Our Wad on Junk

WASHINGTON—"The last Christmas in America" is what economist Terence McCarthy called this December 25th. With the government cautioning us to buy only the small lights on our trees, many people must have looked at their turkeys and wondered if this is indeed the last of a long string of engorged, opulent Yuletides. Santa is on unemployment compensation this year. Will he be on welfare next?

The government says we're only going through another of our periodic little difficulties, aggravated by the price of oil, but in due course matters will right themselves and we can go back to pigging it up in hog heaven. The recent flowering of magazine articles about the sepias days of 1935, however, imply another kind of Christmas in our future.

But this isn't 40 years ago, so it is beside the point to cluck at President Ford, as his opponents in press and politics do, and yearn aloud for another man to tell us all we have to fear is fear itself. We're less in need of leadership than we are of understanding.

President Roosevelt's world ended on the same day that President Eisenhower's did: Aug. 15th, 1971. That was the date that the government was forced, in effect, to devalue the once imperial dollar and could no longer pay for war or domestic extravagance by exporting inflation.

Abroad, other nations ceased taking the dollar at face value or, as McCarthy says (see the current issue of "Ramparts" magazine), began demanding more for having to trade their finite resources like oil and iron for our infinitely replenishing ones like wheat and soy beans. At home we're learning that nothing works as it used to any more.

But we can't get a handle on what's going on. Just such a short time ago we were so rich, so solvent, so productive and so debt free. What's happened with us?

If you go see a holiday season movie called, "The Towering Inferno," this story of a fire in a modern skyscraper provides the answer by metaphor. The skyscraper is the symbol of national waste. Ugly, expensive to build, costly to heat and to cool, a source of congestion, strangulation and entrapment, its only beauty is as a distant part of an urban skyline. Like the missiles that skyscrapers resemble, they destroy, whether by fire or expense, the people who build them.

In short, we've blown our wad on junk. The American Marxist, Jacob Morris, says the same thing in more conventional economic terms when he writes (in the December "Monthly Review"): "Government and people have practiced deficit financing to cover current expenditures on a massive scale, mortgaging their future income as security for debts incurred. In financial terms, then, much of the capital formation of the postwar period... has taken the form of increased government bonded debt... new office buildings, new supermarket projects, new luxury urban housing... IOU's for money down the drain."

The money that should have been spent studying such things as food and energy was frittered away on researching how to sell soap or building Miami Beach. We constructed airbases around the globe but neglected to build ourselves mass transit against the day the government rations gasoline.

Morris concludes that shortsighted waste is in the nature of our system: "Monopoly capitalism invests for quick profits and not to meet long term social needs."

He hasn't much hope for those who believe we don't have to perish in a Towering Inferno of our own building. On the basis of the last 25 years, the evidence is weighted toward him, but is monopoly capitalism the only kind of capitalism we can have?

Without subsidies, special tax treatment and other sorts of privileged considerations, who'd invest in something that's only fit for burning? It's only now that we are beginning to understand that the waste we thought was the health of our system and basis of prosperity is our impoverishment.

So perhaps this needn't be our last Christmas in America. Our Christmases future could be better than our Christmases past, if we don't put up our trees on the 200th floor of the first mile-high skyscraper. From Christ to Bob Cratchit, this feast day was well-celebrated without BankAmericards.

A BORROWER IS SOMEONE TRYING TO LIVE WITHIN YOUR MEANS

Sen. Ervin Sees Good Out of Watergate Case

WASHINGTON (UPI) — After a 20-year Senate career that began with McCarthyism and ended with Watergate, retiring Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., is satisfied he made progress in "fighting big government" and defending the Constitution.

As staff aides filled packing crates with his files and mementos, Ervin, 78, said the Bill of Rights had been "endangered and, to some extent, rescued in my time," but the task was not finished.

Shortly after Ervin was appointed to the Senate in 1954 to fill a vacancy, he was became a member of the select committee whose report led to the Senate's censure of the late Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy, R-Wis.

Two decades later, Ervin became known to millions of television viewers for his eyebrow-wagging, Bible-quoting discourses as chairman of the Senate Watergate hearings, when the public learned the full scope of the scandal for the first time.

Interviewed in his office before he was summoned to the Senate floor for one of the last roll call votes of the waning 93rd Congress, Ervin called Watergate "a most tragic episode of American history," with important lessons for the public.

The scandal stemmed from the Nixon administration's "thirst for political power," he said, expressing hope it would impress Americans with the truth of Lord Acton's observation that "power corrupts and absolute power corrupts absolutely."

"As a result," Ervin said, "the people should be more concerned about how they vote and who they vote for." On the plus side, he said, Watergate has resulted in

"some legislation to make it more difficult to hide contributions of great sums of money (and) weakened the power of money in the political process, which is as it should be."

Although the scandal has had the temporary effect of souring people on politics and politicians, he said, "it ought to inform the people that 'eternal vigilance is the price of liberty'."

Still, he is cheered by the thought that "there is an increased veneration for the Constitution and its principles among the young."

He saw the Bill of Rights endangered when the Justice Department, under former Attorney General John N. Mitchell, succeeded in gaining passage of so-called "preventive detention" and "no-knock" legislation over criticism that it violated the rights of criminal suspects.

"But we've been able to get a repeal of the no-knock laws," Ervin said.

He is proudest of his role in drafting legislation enabling Congress to write its own federal budgets, with full knowledge of funds available for appropriation, and preventing executive branch impoundment of appropriated funds.

"That was a real landmark piece of legislation," he said. "It should result in the balancing of the budget."

Among his greatest disappointments, Ervin said, was Congress' failure to restrict use of executive privilege, the doctrine cited by former Richard M. Nixon in his efforts to withhold the Watergate tapes, and to protect the political rights of government employees.

"Why anyone except a bureaucratic tyrant would oppose such legislation, I don't understand," he said.

Summing up, Ervin said "I've always been fighting big government and the use of government of power, and I think substantial progress has been made in that fight."

Asked if he regretted any of his past Senate votes, or supported causes he now felt were wrong, Ervin replied: "I formed the habit of not looking back."

He did express chagrin over changes he has detected in the Senate in the past 20 years.

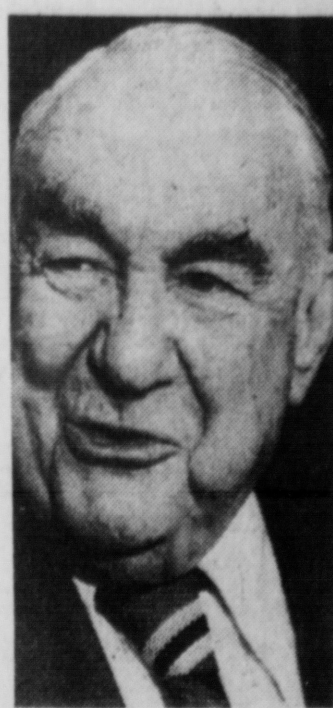

"When I first came to Congress, many members would not vote for a bill they thought was constitutionally defective. Now, however, they will vote for it and leave the constitutionality to the courts."

He said he saw the Constitution weakened when Congress "decided it could determine what things constitute the general welfare," such as revenue sharing and other welfare programs, which are not sanctioned by the Constitution.

The Supreme Court, too, "has sort of fluctuated," he said.

"I don't approve of judicial activists either on the left or the right. I had complaints about the (Earl) Warren Court because it tried to expand the Constitution, and complaints about the (Warren) Burger Court because it tried to restrict the Constitution."

SEN. SAM ERVIN

A Cautious Rockefeller May Have Big Stick

WASHINGTON (UPI) — "Now take care of that inflation, ya hear?" Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., called out as Nelson Rockefeller left the Senate chamber after his inauguration as vice president.

That appeal symbolized the great expectations many hold for Rockefeller to move into a vacuum and do something about the nation's pressing problems, particularly the economy.

"He will add a new dynamics to the situation," said one political observer.

But there is no doubt that Rockefeller will tread softly — at least at first — and move cautiously in a realm where he will be watched for a power play.

Already there is some apprehension among President Ford's top aides that the Rockefeller organization may overshadow their White House operation.

Rockefeller seems aware of that.

"I want to be as quiet and as helpful (as possible) and only do that which is appropriate and useful to the President and to the people of the country," he told reporters.

Most vice presidents in the past have found themselves severely frustrated at their limited responsibilities.

They have served as the traveling emissaries for presidents, but often their diplomatic missions have been nebulous. President Richard M. Nixon sent Vice President Spiro T. Agnew on several such global journeys. Afterwards Nixon barely accorded Agnew a half hour to hear his report.

Lyndon B. Johnson, who had once held the vaulted position of Senate Majority Leader and was one of the most powerful ever to bear that title, never hid his frustration as the second man in the Kennedy administration.

Although he got along with JFK, he had to fight the feeling that Kennedy's aides were trying to "dump him," which they were.

When Johnson selected Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., to be his running mate he told Humphrey: "You know you're only going to be a (expletive deleted) messenger boy around here."

Humphrey was just that. He tied his loyalties so closely to Johnson that, when he ran in 1968 for president, he could not separate himself from LBJ's war policies.

Nixon, too, knew what it was to serve as vice president. He spent eight years in that post under Dwight D. Eisenhower. During the 1960 presidential race Eisenhower, asked what contributions Nixon had made, devastated Nixon by telling a news conference: "If you give me a week, I'll think of something."

When FDR died, then-Vice President Harry S. Truman had not been brought into any of the top secret military policy planning. Secretary of War Henry Stimson even had to inform Truman there was such a thing as the atomic bomb.

Ford, on the other hand, has signaled his intention to make Rockefeller part of the inner circle in domestic planning.

There is no question the President can use some new voices. Even though a major shakeup of Ford's cabinet is expected in January, the President now gets much advice from Nixon holdovers — most of whom believe in minimum government interference in the dynamics of supply and demand.

Heritage and Beacon in Merger

KINGSTON
Merger of the Heritage Savings Bank of Kingston with the Beacon Savings Bank will combine the assets of two institutions totaling almost $200 million.

Announcement of the merger, effective Jan. 1, was made at a recent press conference by Clifford A. Henze, chairman of the Heritage board of directors and Raymond Fietsam, chairman of the Beacon board of directors.

Heritage brings assets of approximately $138 million to the merger. Assets of the Beacon bank total approximately $60 million. The new combined institution will retain the Heritage name.

Both Henze and Fietsam sounded an optimistic note at the press conference, held at the Holiday Inn in Kingston.

Noting that combined assets of the two banks will ake the new institution one of the largest savings banks between Albany and New York City, Henze said that "deposits are starting to flow in again. With the turn in the economy and the government's desire to have interest rates come down, we are in a little better position."

Asked about economic prospects and the employment situation in Beacon, Fietsam said that employment there has actually gone up in the last month, and said that income per family remains high.

"We are heavily dependent on IBM and Texaco in the Dutchess County area," Fietsam noted. "The employment and economic situation is quite good."

The merger will enable the two banks to provide more efficient, convenient, and comprehensive banking services throughout the Hudson Valley, Henze pointed out.

"Together, the two savings banks will be able to meet the numerous economic, social and financial challenges that now exist throughout the Hudson Valley," he said. "Both banks have traditionally met the financial needs of their customers, and pledge to place the interest of their customers and community first."

Heritage Savings Bank, organized in 1874, has three offices; the Wall Street Office in Kingston; the Bonanza Office on Route 9W in the Town of Ulster; and the Ramapo Office in Spring Valley. Heritage will open an office at the new Dutchess Mall Shopping Center in Fishkill in the near future.

Beacon Savings Bank, organized in 1866, has offices at 364 Main Street, Beacon, at 14 Vassar Road, Poughkeepsie, and in the Pleasant Valley Shopping Mall in Pleasant Valley.

"We will take advantage of all branching privileges available to us," Henze said. "Banking law allows us to open one branch a year. An application has been filed for one near Middletown, in Orange County."

Freeman's:

Business/FinancialNo-Fault Plan Is Working

KINGSTON Kenneth P. Pangburn, president of Colonial Cooperative Insurance Company, Kingston, has reported that the New York No-Fault is working with considerable success. In a recent release by the State of New York Insurance Department, several important facts affecting people in New York State were pointed out.

Price reductions for personal injury insurance in effect on Jan. 1, 1973, with those in effect on Feb. 1, 1974, were as follows:

For basic personal injury insurance, where the statute required a 10 per cent reduction, the actual reduction averaged more than 19 per cent. For all kinds of personal injury insurance, including optional as well as basic, the average actual reduction was about 13 per cent.

In dollar terms, New Yorkers would save about one hundred million dollars annually based on the actual No-Fault rates and save about $15 dollars annually for each vehicle.

It should be noted that, contrary to assertions made by some, the annual savings achieved under No-Fault include the cost of optional coverages. In other words, if no optional coverages were purchased, the annual savings on a state wide basis would have been one hundred-thirty million dollars. The actual savings are one hundred million dollars because New Yorkers have elected to spend $30 million dollars for extra coverage.

In addition to savings on policy renewals, some policy holders received refunds on existing policies. Policy holders who had purchased auto insurance prior to Feb. 1, 1974, were entitled to receive a refund in the amount of the difference between what they have already paid for the post-Feb. 1 period and what they would have paid for each period based on the lower rates which took effect

Feb. 1, 1974. Some confusion arose because of the failure of people to realize the difference between the refund they received and their annual savings.

Liability claims in New York declined by 45 per cent from the second quarter of 1973 to the second quarter of 1974. In August 1974, a regulation requiring non-profit health carriers to exclude duplication of No-Fault automobile insurance benefits from their community-rated health insurance contracts by Feb. 1, 1975 was enacted. If all health insurers in the state were to eliminate duplicate benefits, the potential health insurance premium savings would approximate $75 million dollars a year which is in addition to savings on auto insurance.

President Pangburn mentioned that there probably will be proposed changes during the next session of the state legislature which hopefully, will further improve No-Fault in New York state.

Stocking-Stuffors for Home

Robert B. Murray (L), vice-president of Bankers Trust, Hudson Valley, presents colorful mouse-character Christmas coin banks to Lawrence B. Siewers, executive director of the Children's Home. The coin banks were used as stocking stuffers for the children Christmas morning.

Full Lap for Santa at Mammoth Mall

It may be the candy canes Santa gave away to all children who came to visit him, or it may have been just his personal charm, but Santa attracted a very attractive lap full recently at the Mammoth Mall on Route 9W, Kingston. His left knee is the seat for Joanne Van Loan, 2. On his right is Miss Kodak, who was visiting the Artcraft Camera Center at the mall.

Wilkie and Althouse Retiring

POUGHKEEPSIE
John Wilkie, chairman of the board and chief executive officer of Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corp., and Ernest E. Althouse president of the company, have announced that they will retire from active service April 1, each after more than 46 years with Central Hudson.

Carlson will enter into a five-year contract with the company, subject to his reelection as a director during that period. He will continue as a member of his law firm, but will render no legal services to Central Hudson, nor receive income from his firm attributable to Central Hudson.

Wilson's presidency is also subject to his reelection as a director.

The directors also took steps to reorganize the board, Wilkie said "to meet the current and prospective needs of the business, and to assure an informed transition from a management with long experience in the company's affairs."

The Central Hudson Board of Directors, at a regular meeting Friday, elected H. Clifton Wilson, currently executive vice-president of the company, director and president of the company, and Theodore J. Carlson chairman of the board and principal officer of the company.

KINGSTON
Seriously disabled New York State veterans who are holders of fee-exempt New York State Thruway Permits are reminded that the annual permits expire Jan. 10, 1975. In order to continue free use of the Thruway a properly completed 1975 permit registration application, as well as evidence that the applicant is qualified for and has received a fee-exempt motor vehicle registration (license plate) from the New York State Department of Motor Vehicles as a disabled veteran must be filed with the Thruway authority. The State of New York grants a fee-exempt Motor Vehicle Registration to those seriously disabled veterans who received a grant toward the purchase of an automobile or other conveyance from the VA.

Veterans with service in World War 2, Korean Conflict, and Vietnam Era, who suffered the loss or loss of use of one or both hands or feet, or permanent impairment of vision of both eyes to a prescribed degree while in service and discharged under honorable conditions may qualify for the VA payment. The amount of payment is now $2,800 toward the purchase price of the auto excluding adaptive equipment. Additional amounts are payable for the special equipment required to assist the disabled veteran in operating the vehicle. Payments for maintaining and replacing this equipment are also provided.

Traffic Deaths Below Estimates

By UPI

Traffic deaths on the nation's highways today appeared to have fallen short of National Safety Council estimates that between 200 and 260 persons would die during the one-day Christmas holiday period.

More than 100 persons were killed in traffic accidents before the 30-hour holiday ended. However, a final count was not expected until later today.

Indications were the toll would fall short of the council's predictions and dip below the 231 fatalities recorded during the last one-day Christmas holiday count six years ago.

Last year, the Christmas holiday period traffic death toll was 480.

In one of the worst holiday accidents this year, a car smashed into a city bus near downtown Atlanta, killing five passengers in the car and injuring the bus driver.

Police said the car ran under the empty bus, shearing off the car roof, and knocked the bus onto the sidewalk.

In Arcadia, Tex., a pickup truck carrying the Olen Ray family home from a Christmas reunion with relatives crashed into a freight train at an unlighted crossing. Five members of the family were killed and a sixth was injured.

The Texas Department of Public Safety said the truck was broadsided by the train, throwing all occupants of the truck from the vehicle.

Fires also marred the Christmas holiday.

Five small children, including an 8-month-old baby, died Christmas morning when fire broke out near a Christmas tree, engulfing their San Jose, Calif., home in flames.

Three other children and two grandparents escaped by jumping through back windows.

The one-story house was destroyed, and charred toys and clothing were strewn over the front lawn.

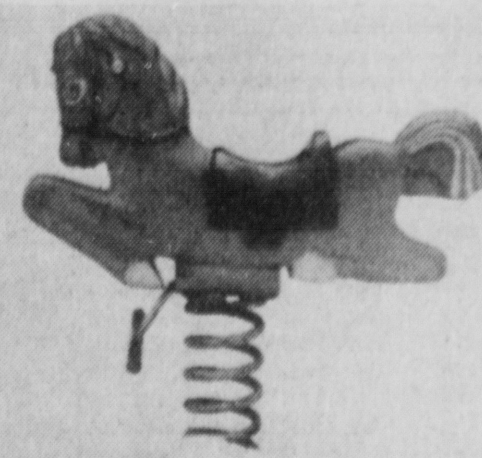

A United Press International survey showed at least 141 persons were killed in highway accidents since the holiday began at 6 p.m. Tuesday.

A breakdown of accidental deaths:

Traffic.....	141
Fire.....	15
Plane.....	1
Other.....	8

Total..... 165

Texas reported the largest number of traffic fatalities with 15. New York had 13 highway deaths, Georgia 12, California nine and Michigan eight.

Corralled Until Summer

Highland State Police said that Charles Smith, 23, of Tompkins Terrace, Beacon, was driving east on Huckleberry Road at 12:40 a.m. when his 1966 model sedan went off the left side of the road, striking a wooden shed, a large rock, a tree, and a fence before coming to rest.

Smith was taken by the Modena Ambulance Corps to St. Luke's Hospital in Newburgh suffering from severe head injuries. Hospital authorities reported him in critical condition in the Intensive Care Unit. Two passengers in his car were not injured.

Troopers John Hornbeck and James Cohes said that the probable cause of the accident was speed too fast for conditions, and that charges are pending against the driver.

The driver of a car involved in a head-on crash Tuesday night on Old Route 209, Hurley, remains in serious condition at the Albany Medical center.

Gary Ennis, 20, of 57 Dun-kenman Avenue, Kingston, was taken first to Kingston Hospital by Doctor's Ambulance after his car was in collision with a vehicle operated by Saul Schechter, 47, of 88 Roosevelt Avenue, Kingston, at 5:36 p.m., Tuesday.

Trooper Jerry Brainard of the Hurley State Police station reported that the two vehicles were approaching each other on a slight curve when Ennis' car allegedly crossed over into the north-bound lane and collided with Schechter, who was unable to stop in time.

Shortly after arrival at Kingston Hospital, Ennis was transferred to the Intensive Care Unit of Albany Medical Center suffering from severe brain damage.

Schechter suffered an injured hand and was treated and released from the Kingston Hospital emergency room.

Meteorologist Turns Poet

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — After predicting a gray and somewhat mild Christmas Day just a few hours earlier, it was, to say the least, a shock for the forecaster who found at least four inches of heavy, wet, snow on the ground the next morning.

Elliott Barske, a staff meteorologist at the National Weather Service Forecast Office, detailed his dismay in the following poem, received on the weather wire at UPI:

"Twas the morning of Christmas all through the town,
And under many a tree presents were found.

I looked out my window and with a sheepish grin, Saw it was white and it shouldn't have been.

The forecast was cloudy, or was it fair,

But four inches of snow — it just couldn't be there!
We had studied our maps from far and from near,
But we forgot about Santa — he would be here.

He needed fresh snow to set down his sleigh;
The old wouldn't do. That was his way.
But next year if Santa needs snow for his trip,

I wish he would give the weather service a tip.

Asked what had prompted him to write the poem, Barske said, "When we have a stationary front to the south of us, such as we had last night, things like that can happen very quickly ... Sometimes you have to put it down in writing. It helps a little."

Four Bids Received For Old City Hall Roof

KINGSTON J&A Roofing Inc. of Kingston was the apparent low bidder at $2,390 for temporary repairs of the roof at the old city hall at 408 Broadway, at bids opened in the city clerk's office on Tuesday.

Four bids were received all from Kingston firms, with Mid-Hudson Pam Corp. second at $2,446 followed by Colonial Roofing Inc. at $2,962. Smith-Parish Roofing was high at $10,380.

Bids were opened by City Clerk Louis F. DeCicco. Present at the bid opening were Alderman Philip DeCicco (D-Ninth Ward), and Thomas Cerwonka, a member of WHITA (We've Had It Taxpayers Association) which had advocated temporary repair of the roof.

Alderman DeCicco was representing the Building and Supply Committee of the Common Council which has jurisdiction over the building, abandoned by the city in September of 1972 when it moved its municipal headquarters to Meadow Street.

Contract specifications called, essentially, for estimates on making the roof of the building weather tight. The roof itself had been deteriorating for the past 20 years with only minimal repairs, if any, by the past five mayors.

There has been no indication on whether any of the "informal bids" opened Tuesday will be accepted by the city. If the city does decide to patch the roof, formal bids would have to be let as Tuesday's opening did not meet a number of legal requirements, among them, advertising for bids publicly.

WHITA instigated the move toward at least getting estimates of the cost of repairing the roof of the 101-year-old building. A WHITA delegation met with Mayor Francis R. Koenig last September and gave him estimates of $1,500 for the repair of the roof. Koenig referred the committee to the Building and Supply Committee.

There is also $800 available in private funds, being offered by the Friends of Historic Kingston, who have become increasingly active in the past few months in their efforts toward preservation of the building.

The Building and Supply Committee is currently studying the bids and will announce a course of action within the next two weeks.

Another Lonely Night For Youth in Hospital

DENVER (UPI) — It was Christmas night, but for 17-year-old Marty Cox it was just another lonely night in his Colorado General Hospital room.

"Everything was set for me to go home," said Marty, one of the world's longest surviving liver transplants. "But then this fever came up and everything had to be canceled."

For the second straight year, Marty was unable to go home to Nova, Ohio for Christmas. And his family — his father is an automobile assembly line worker — couldn't afford to come see Marty.

Then, shortly after 8 p.m., the nurse came into Marty's room, put him in a wheelchair and wheeled him into the visitors room.

"Good grief," Marty shouted, smiling as he saw his mother, father and sister.

After reading about the plight of the Cox family in a Denver newspaper, an Englewood, Colo., businessman, who did not want to be identified, put up $577 for the round trip air fare for the three, a local motel provided them rooms for four days and the hospital staff took up a collection for their meals.

"When we woke up Christmas morning we had no idea all this was going to happen," said Mrs. Cox. "This is the nicest Christmas present we ever had."

The Cox family, which arrived in Denver late Christmas Day, also brought a trunk loaded with Marty's presents from last year and this year.

"He had asked us to keep them until he could come home for a Christmas and open them," said Mrs. Cox, whose son had the liver operation in 1969 and has since undergone more than a dozen operations. "But we decided not to wait any longer. When we heard about coming here, we packed them all up."

Smile for Dinner

United Press International

A South Dakota restaurant owner who didn't want to spend Christmas alone opened the doors to his steak house and invited all lonely people to join him for dinner. The price was a smile.

More than 75 persons showed up during the first hour in response to the invitation by Larry Dethury, Brandon, S.D., a native of Hungary who lived in California for 14 years before settling in South Dakota.

Dethury, who told one elderly customer "your smiles are more than enough..." was just one example of the Christmas spirit.

Even 14 million blackbirds slated for execution by the Army at Milan, Tenn., were given a Christmas reprieve.

Army officials had planned to kill the birds as pests. However, the eradication was delayed due to "the divergency of opinion expressed by various individuals and organizations on this proposed action," a spokesman said.

But even the Christmas spirit could not overcome personal tragedy. In Denver, 17-year-old Marty Cox—one of the world's longest surviving liver transplant patients—spent his second Christmas in a room at Colorado General Hospital.

Cox has been too ill to travel since November 1973, and his parents say they can not afford the plane fare from Nova, Ohio, to visit him.

However, the Cox family said they would keep their Christmas tree up until it turns brown in hopes Marty will be able to come home and open his presents.

Food: How High the Price?

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Food economists, after a second straight year of 15 per cent inflation in the price of groceries to consumers, see further increases in 1975.

The question is, how high will they go? Some experts believe it will depend more on the weather during the next 6 to 10 months than anything else.

Agriculture Department economists, basing estimates on supplies available from 1974 crops and current livestock herds, already have predicted that retail prices will rise 3 to 4 per cent in each of the first two quarters of 1975. That is equivalent to an annual rate of 15 per cent.

However, prices for the last six months of the year will be influenced by the size of 1975 harvests here and abroad. If farmers have average-to-better weather and bring in record crops, prices would rise much more slowly in the second half.

One expert said that under the best possible conditions, grocery prices for the year might rise less than 10 per cent. If there's bad weather, food inflation may jump more than 15 per cent over 1974.

Weather in 1974 was the worst for farmers in a generation. Spring floods delayed planting of corn and other key crops, leaving them vulnerable to frost damage in the fall. Drought withered grain fields. Yield estimates tumbled. Prices jumped to record levels.

Also in 1974 came the biggest leap ever recorded in the cost of moving food from farm to supermarket. Most of the increase in the "marketing margin" — which includes all costs as well as profits for processors, retailers and other middlemen — came early in the year as food industry firms made up for delayed cost pass-throughs and squeezed profits following 1973 controls.

The net result, even after margin growth slowed later this year, was a 21 per cent increase for 1974 as a whole in the farm-to-retail price spread — more than three times as big as the largest previous annual increase.

There was plenty of meat and poultry in 1974, but many farmers who produced them lost money. In the third quarter, for example, the retail cost of a household food market basket was 9.2 per cent higher while farm returns for the food in the basket averaged — because of low livestock prices — 7.6 per cent below the year before.

... And Good Luck for the New Year

Good News and Bad

WASHINGTON (UPI) — First the bad news: Scientists report that Freon gas used in spray cans and cooling systems may be breaking up the ozone layer in the atmosphere.

Now the good news: Scientists have found in the Milky Way a vast molecular cloud of ethyl alcohol that theoretically could be distilled into 10,000 trillion trillion fifths of 200-proof liquor.

The bad news already has been thoroughly examined at recent congressional hearings and needs no elaboration here. But what is the significance of the good news?

Seeking an answer to that question, I got in touch with Dr. Ainsworth McFirmament, chief astronomer and night cashier at the Mt. Balderdash Observatory and Car Wash.

At the time of the interview Dr. McFirmament was focusing his powerful half-inch telescope on the planet Gertrude.

"There's an interesting interplanetary conjunction tonight," he said. "Or it may be an interplanetary preposition. I always have trouble telling them apart."

"Anyway, the planet Gertrude is passing within two and a half feet of the planet Hortense, a phenomenon that only occurs once every three light years, or twice every five heavy years, whichever comes first."

I said, "That's all very nice, Doctor, but what of that Milky Way booze cloud?"

"Well, I'll tell you," McFirmament replied in that deliberate thoughtful way of his, "this discovery appears to substantiate one of the current theories about the origin of the universe."

"Are you referring to the 'Big Bang' theory?"

"No, I'm referring to the 'Big Burp' theory."

He went on to explain that avant garde astronomers are leaning away from the prevailing theory that the universe was created by a stupendous nebular explosion.

These advanced thinkers, he said, now tend to believe the creation of the universe was more in the nature of a cataclysmic cosmic belch.

"According to the 'Big Burp' theory, gases were formed by molecules similar to those found in ethyl alcohol combining with molecules present in such substances as tomato sauce, pasta and pepperoni."

"These gases behaved in the manner of gases formed by confining beer and pizza in the human stomach. That is, they became extremely unstable and finally erupted."

"Depending on whether any pizza-like molecules are present, the alcohol cloud may presage the creation of whole new universe. I just hope I'm around to see it."

Me, too. But I'd rather see them figure out some way to bottle the stuff.

Eventual Black Rule Possible

Rhodesia's iron-willed Premier Ian D. Smith appears to be bending slowly to demands of his white and black neighbors that he enter into meaningful negotiations with Rhodesia's black majority looking toward eventual black rule.

But even though shorn of support from the neighboring Republic of South Africa and with eventual victory for the majority a seeming certainty, he already is making it clear his retreat will be a long and grudging one — lasting, he hopes, throughout his lifetime.

It was on the issue of black rule that Smith nine years ago declared unilateral independence from Britain, and in succeeding years defied not only Britain but worldwide economic and diplomatic sanctions imposed by the United Nations.

Two events forced a drastic change of tactics.

One was the military coup which toppled the Portuguese government and led to the decision granting independence to former Portuguese colonies in Africa, among them, Mozambique.

With Mozambique scheduled to go over to black rule in June, Rhodesia lost an important buffer on its northern border and faced probable loss of access to the ports of Beira and Lourenço Marques.

The second was a move by Prime Minister John Vorster of South Africa toward making his own peace with black African nations. While easing only slightly his own white supremacist policies, he urged Rhodesia to negotiate with black nationalists and announced his own determination to withdraw from Rhodesia the South African forces he had sent to Rhodesia to fight black guerrillas.

In a conference at Lusaka, Zambia, attended by the presidents of Zambia, Tanzania and Botswana, feuding black nationalist factions from Rhodesia agreed to form a common front.

Under further prodding from South Africa, Smith announced agreement on a cease-fire and said jailed nationalist leaders would be released.

Government regulations also were relaxed slightly to permit black leaders to hold political meetings in advance of a conference to be held early next year to determine the country's future.

The black insurgency movement which broke out in December, 1972, is estimated to have taken the lives of 500 guerrillas, 50 members of the Rhodesian security forces and more than 100 civilians.

Whether the initial rise in black hopes is to be justified will be determined by next spring's conference.

The blacks have said they will not agree to any long interim government.

Prodding Smith toward a settlement has been another suggestion from the South African government. Vorster has proposed that those among Rhodesia's 5.5 million blacks with one year of secondary schooling be permitted to vote. Such a plan, it was said, would permit Rhodesia's 270,000 whites to hold power a few years but that blacks probably would take over the legislature in five years.

One Out of Every 10 Students Handicapped

NEW YORK (UPI) — Little John or Jane Doe, mentally retarded and educable to the level of ability, looks now to the public school near home for help.

The same for many emotionally disturbed and other children with crippling physical disabilities.

Seven million school-age children —roughly one out of 10 in the United States —are handicapped. In the past handicapped children were refused at public schools. The system wasn't set up to handle them.

What's different today? Across the land courts and state legislatures are mandating the right to a free public education suitable to the needs of all children —including the handicapped.

These mandates crashed barriers at the public schools and by the hundreds of thousands the handicapped young Americans are heading for local schoolhouses.

The law requires that the environment at the regular school be changed to help them fit in.

By definition a handicapped child has a speech, hearing or vision problem, may be learning disabled, crippled, or mentally or emotionally disturbed.

The Council for Exceptional Children, a department of the National Education Association, says fewer than 40 per cent of these children are now enrolled in special education programs.

The other handicapped children either stay home, go to special schools designed for them, or live in institutions.

A report on "the mandate for special education of the handicapped" shows court decisions in 11 states plus Wisconsin, Maryland, Pennsylvania, Louisiana, Utah and the District of Columbia helped the movement speed up.

From Education Facilities Laboratories, the report was financed by the Rockefeller Brothers Fund.

Larry Molloy, report director, says all 50 states now have laws providing some kind of educational services for handicapped children.

"In addition to state legislation," Molloy said, "the judicial system is also firmly upholding the rights of the handicapped to equal treatment, equal education and equal opportunity.

"Lawsuits against various American school systems — notably the Pennsylvania Association for Retarded Children vs. the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and several others —have already been settled in favor of handicapped children.

"Together, these...cases are formulating a general bill of rights for the handicapped.

"Such rights include a free public education for all handicapped children regardless of the class or severity of the handicap.

"The education is to be appropriate to each child's individual needs, including toilet training and self-grooming as reasonable educational objectives; treatment and therapy in accordance with the disability; appropriate services within a reasonable period of time after application — usually within 15 days; due process; and the right of the least restrictive alternative."

LEGAL NOTICE

NOTICE OF PROPOSED CHANGES IN TELEPHONE COMPANY SCHEDULES FOR BUSY LINE VERIFICATION

Notice is hereby given that the following provisions for busy line verification procedures have been filed with the Public Service Commission pursuant to its Opinion and Order issued October 24, 1974 in Case 26311. The proposed effective date of the tariff is January 10, 1975. The Company has been directed to modify its procedures in regard to busy line verification, in accordance with the Opinion, 60 days from the issuance of its Order.

BUSY LINE VERIFICATION SERVICE

- Upon request of a calling party, the Company will verify a busy condition on a called line in accordance with the following procedures:
1. The assistance operator will dial the called number, and, if a busy line signal is received, will report the fact to the calling party. Unless the provisions of Paragraph 2 following apply, the assistance operator will then request the calling party to wait for a short time and dial again.
 2. The assistance operator will refer the call to the verification operator if (1) the caller indicates an emergency or (2) the caller indicates that either the calling or called party is elderly, ill or handicapped or (3) the caller indicates that several attempts over a period of time to place the call have resulted in a busy signal.
 3. The verification operator will determine if the line appears to be clear, in use, or out of order, and report to the calling party.
 4. The verification operator will interrupt a conversation in progress on the called line only if the calling party indicates an emergency and requests interruption.

A Role Reversal In Saigon

SAIGON (UPI) — Every Saturday Viet Cong briefers charge American-supported South Vietnamese forces with such high crimes and misdemeanors as genocide and chicken stealing.

The briefing takes place on Tan Son Nhut airbase, once a great bastion of American armed might and now a seedy complex of rickety barracks.

It was from Tan Son Nhut that hotshot young Americans once took off into the skies after vowing to "snuff some chucks."

It is one of the great ironies of the American war effort in Indochina that today the herds of Americans are gone and the briefings are staged by the Viet Cong, those tough little fellows the GIs once called collectively "Victor Charlie," "Charles," or simply "Chuck."

A portrait of the late Ho Chi Minh dominates the briefing room.

Uncle Ho looks for all the world like a man who is bemused by the American newsmen sitting out there in front of him with their pencils poised.

Viet Cong officers pop the tops off bottles of orange soda and hand them to the newsmen, who trade cigarettes with their hosts for ones made in Hanoi.

It's all very civilized —except for the rhetoric.

A major uses a map and a pointer as he verbally flogs government forces, whom he charges constantly violate the Paris peace agreement with the illegal support of their American allies.

Occasionally his voice is drowned out by the sound of fighter planes roaring into the skies to strafe and bomb Viet Cong, whom the South Vietnamese and the Americans contend also violate that agreement.

Maj. Ha Can, one of the briefers, has fought French, American and South Vietnamese soldiers in "so many battles I can't remember how many."

"Wounded in action in 1966, the major and his comrades live an isolated life. They cannot leave their carefully guarded compound to enjoy what still is an exciting city to foreigners.

Much of what the major has observed in Saigon he does not like, particularly the prostitution which peaked during the American involvement here and still is much in evidence.

"There are many things in Saigon which are unpleasant to look at," he said. "Saigon must have more policemen than any city in the world."

The major said Viet Cong forces had defeated the French and also "the Americans who were much better equipped."

Today there are about 50 persons who have been convicted of criminal charges in Ulster County and who are awaiting sentencing but most will have to wait at least four weeks until the court receives pre-sentencing reports from the local probation department which is short staffed and grossly underpaid compared to other counties.

County Judge Raymond J. Mino has repeatedly remarked in court concerning the delays in sentencing, blaming the problem in some part on the constant turnover of Probation Department personnel.

District Attorney Francis J. Vogt too has often expressed the wish for speedier sentencing saying they lose their deterrent value when several months lapse between conviction and sentence. He maintains that there is a minimum of at least two months between conviction and sentence and many cases take longer.

Judge Mino refers to Ulster County as "a training ground" for probation officers who go on to other better paying jobs in other counties once they have learned the ropes.

Aware of the problems that have plagued the department for many years, Legislature Chairman Peter J. Savago, (R-Dist. 8) asked the State Probation Department to send in a temporary director to reorganize the department last August.

Almost immediately, the state sent Kenneth Fogarty, as acting director until a new director can be hired. Meanwhile the Ulster County Legislature has increased the salary of the director from $10,059 to $16,155 and has added four new posts to the department. They include a senior probation officer, two support bureau investigators and a principal clerk.

Presently, an Ulster County probation officer receives $7,273 annually which is considered extremely low when compared to Columbia County which pays about $10,000, Orange County which pays in excess of $9,000 and other nearby counties such as Putnam and Rockland, who all exceed the Ulster wage scale. Fogarty said it is totally inadequate when one considers that a probation trainee must have a four-year bachelor degree with a minimum of 30 credit hours in social or behavioral science and a probation officer must have a masters degree. "It doesn't take any ordinary cookie to do the job," he said, adding that trainees need at least 12 months of work under good supervision to become a good probation officer.

While Ulster County seeks a new probation director, Fogarty has been trying to produce a more efficient delivery of service. He has separated the duties of the individual probation officers according to the three major units of the department—in-take, supervision and investigation.

He feels that the Probation Department has "a tremendous potential for saving the county money through several programs he would like to see implemented such as releasing some prisoners in their own recognizance with the approval of the district attorney and the judge. This would reduce the jail population by about 40 per cent he predicted.

Fogarty also favors a present program of supervising youths in trouble rather than institutionalizing them. He points out that it costs about $19,000 a year to support a youngster in an institution.

Fogarty takes exception to the statements made regarding the large amount of lapse time between conviction and sentencing, maintaining that "we are always doing investigations and for the most part are always on time." He said that the department does not always meet its deadline of four weeks to investigate but "only in a few cases."

Judge Mino indicated Friday that the 50 cases pending would be reduced to some extent the week following Christmas when a number of sentences are scheduled.

CORNWALL
State Sen. Richard E. Schermerhorn (R-C-40th District), in response to what he said were "numerous requests from my constituents," has made known his position against legislation requiring continuing education for nurses.

Schermerhorn said the proposed legislation "would force many of our dedicated nurses to leave the profession, in that they cannot meet the costs to participate in a program of this nature."

If the provisions making the continuing education mandatory were taken out of the legislation, Schermerhorn said he would "take another look at the bill."

He said the proposed bill "will in no way directly benefit or increase patient care."

The measure is backed by the New York State Nurses Association, according to Schermerhorn, and he said the association was seeking the legislation without the support of the majority of the state's nurses.

"I would suggest that they (the association) refrain from this venture," advised Schermerhorn, "and pursue other areas of the nursing profession to increase the care of the patient and the effectiveness of the profession as a whole."

Yule Joy For Children In Rosendale

ROSENDALE
Coloring books, crayons and candy canes brightened Christmas for some 200 children in the Rosendale area recently, thanks to the National Bank of Orange and Ulster County and Santa Claus.

Santa visited with children from the first and second grades at St. Peter's School, the Reformed Church of Bloomington and the BOCES school in Rosendale. Arthur Mulligan contributed his time to transport the children to and from the bank.

Later, Santa stopped off at the Shokan branch of the Orange and Ulster bank, where he visited with some 125 kindergarten children from Oteora Central School.

Assisting Santa were Garry Thompkins, Frank Carle and Fred Keane, Managers respectively of the Rosendale, Shokan and Woodstock branches of the National Bank of Orange and Ulster County.

LIFE

He Has a New Lease on Life at 94

It's a happy holiday season for Charles May currently a resident of the Ulster County Infirmary, Glen Street. With vision and general well-being much improved following hip surgery and a cataract operation, Mr. May reports "I've never really felt my age." He's 94, a native of Ohio who has lived in Malden for the past 32 years until he fell at home in July and required hospitalization for hip surgery. He was then brought to the Ulster County Infirmary to convalesce. He is now walking with a walker and shows a great interest in his fellow residents and staff.

Mr. May's enjoyment of life seemed a bit dampened recently by his inability to see as a result of an enlarging cataract in his left eye. He had a previous operation on his right eye many years earlier but that was beginning to fail. Reading, watching TV and occasional sidelong glances at passing nurses were markedly restricted. With great misgiving he went for consultation and ultimately to have his left eye operated upon for removal of the cataract.

Barbara Werlau R.N., headnurse shown with Mr. May notes, "this is a case in point. Elderly people must not be classified as beyond hope at any point in their lives, as long as they demonstrate the will and desire to be helped."

Special Program at SHS

Mrs. Patricia Yeager from the Ulster County Division of the American Cancer Society spoke recently to the girls' physical education class at Saugerties High School.

The discussion concerned breast self-examination, using Betsi, a plastic model, whose built-in lesions give examples of what women should be looking for during their self-examinations. Mrs. Yeager showed the proper technique, and mentioned that all women from the ages of puberty on should practice breast self-examination once a month. She also had samples of several breast prostheses for those women who have had mastectomies. This program followed the previous week's presentation of two films from the American Society; one showing the breast self-examination technique and one stressing the necessity of getting the yearly PAP test to check for uterine cancer.

The program was coordinated at Saugerties High School by Mrs. Linda Gallo, high school health teacher and Ms. Carol Countryman, high school girls' physical education teacher.

Kate Van Gaasbeek (second from left) has reason to smile. As membership chairman spanning many years for the American Legion Auxiliary Unit 72, Saugerties, she has reached her quota of 103 paid members as announced at the recent auxiliary Christmas party. She is being congratulated by (l-r) Alice McWeeney; Alice McNally, a 50 year member; and Alice Kolano.

Leftovers Star in an Easy-does-it Post-Holiday Buffet

Holiday entertaining often extends beyond Christmas Day. Whether you have house guests for a few days or just a succession of friends and family dropping by, now to New Year's Day, you are likely to be playing hostess more than once. It can be a strain on your budget, especially in these troubled economic times. More than ever, "it's what you do with what you got that counts."

Make it easy on yourself and use leftovers for an easy-does-it postholiday buffet. It's an economical and convenient way to entertain.

Our Turkey Casserole Supreme turns leftovers into a scrumptious main dish for your party. Adapted from a French recipe, this casserole combines turkey, mushrooms, macaroni, Swiss cheese and ham for a delightful blend of flavors. A tasty cream sauce is the perfect topping for this savory dish.

Round out your buffet menu with a green vegetable, molded salad, hot rolls and creme de menthe parfaits.

Turkey Casserole Supreme

- 1/2 cup (1/2 stick) Blue Bonnet Margarine
- 1/2 pound (about 2 cups) sliced fresh mushrooms
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice
- 3/4 cup milk
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/8 teaspoon pepper

- 4 eggs
- 1/2 cup heavy cream
- 1/2 cup grated Swiss cheese
- 2 cups cooked elbow macaroni, chopped
- 1 1/2 cups diced cooked turkey or chicken
- 1/2 cup diced cooked ham
- 2 tablespoons chopped parsley

Cream Sauce (recipe below)

Melt margarine in large skillet. Add sliced mushrooms and lemon juice; saute for 5 minutes. Stir in milk, salt and pepper; simmer for 10 minutes or until mushrooms are tender and milk has been reduced to 1/2 cup.

Beat eggs thoroughly with heavy cream and grated cheese. Add mushroom mixture, macaroni, chicken, ham and chopped parsley. Mix thoroughly; add more salt and pepper, if desired. Pour into a greased 1 1/2-quart souffle dish or casserole.

Bake at 350°F. for 30 to 40 minutes or until bubbly and lightly browned. Serve with cream sauce (recipe below). Makes 1 1/2-quart casserole—serves 6.

CREAM SAUCE: Melt 3 tablespoons margarine in small heavy saucepan. Blend in 2 tablespoons flour, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1/4 teaspoon pepper and dash of nutmeg. Remove from heat and gradually stir in 1/2 cup heavy cream and 1 1/2 cups milk. Return to heat and bring mixture to a boil, stirring constantly. Cook 1 minute longer. Garnish with paprika, if desired.

Hors d'oeuvres Ideal for New Year's Eve Buffet

By Aileen Claire
NEA Food Editor

Chicken livers make good hors d'oeuvres or may be cooked with sherry and broth for a sauce to top rice for a less expensive holiday buffet dish.

Sherried Chicken Livers

- 2 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 1/2 cup chopped onion
- 1/2 pound mushrooms, sliced
- 1 cup diced pared cored apple
- 2 pounds chicken livers
- 1/4 cup flour
- 1 1/2 cups chicken broth
- 1/2 cup New York State sherry
- 2 teaspoons salt

- 1/2 teaspoon pepper
- 1/2 teaspoon dried leaf thyme

In a large skillet melt butter. Add onion and cook until tender. Add mushrooms; cook 10 minutes. Add apple. Dust chicken livers with flour, add to skillet and cook until browned. Add chicken broth and Taylor sherry. Stir until sauce thickens. Stir in salt, pepper and thyme. Cover and simmer 10 minutes. Serve over rice. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Rumaki

- 1/4 cup soy sauce
- 1/2 teaspoon each ginger and curry powder
- 1/2 pound chicken livers
- Bacon slices
- Water chestnuts

In a bowl, mix together soy sauce, ginger and curry powder. Halve chicken livers and add. Allow 1/2 bacon slice for each half liver and add to marinade. Marinate for 4 hours or overnight. Remove bacon and livers and drain. Place each piece of liver with a thin slice of water chestnut and wrap with a bacon slice. Secure with a wooden pick.

Place on foillined shallow baking pan. Broil, turning once, until bacon is cooked and crisp. Makes approximately 1 1/2 dozen.

Warm Up After Winter Sports

It's fun to get out into brisk winter weather and work up an appetite with skating, skiing and all kinds of outdoor sports. But when that hungry crowd comes piling into the house to warm up and refuel, what are you going to serve? Here's a winter snack buffet that's sure to please with steaming hot chocolate and lots of tasty snacks fresh from the oven, says Louise K. Breitung.

Best of all, the whole menu is easy on the hostess. Have a tray of Cheese Snacks made in advance, refrigerated and ready for the oven. For these you need buttered slices of party rye bread or hot-dog rolls, plus apple rings, Vienna sausages, crisp bacon strips and Cheddar and Gouda cheese. While they're heating, put out bowls of popcorn, apples, and plates of doughnuts.

Serve some regular powdered sugar and/or glazed doughnuts, warmed for extra appeal. For a special treat, try some open-faced doughnut tricks. Surprise the crowd with popcorn tossed and mixed with melted butter, Parmesan cheese; garlic salt or chili powder. All are welcome with mugs of hot chocolate milk.

Winter Snack Buffet

Cheese Snacks

On buttered party rye bread slices place an unpeeled apple ring (brush apple with lemon juice if preparing ahead); top with a Vienna sausage cut in half and a wedge of Gouda cheese; or top with crisp bacon and sprinkle with shredded Cheddar cheese; slip under broiler to melt cheese. On a third of a buttered hot-dog roll, place a split Vienna sausage and sprinkle with shredded Cheddar cheese; slip under broiler to melt cheese. Serve hot.

Doughnuts:

Arrange powdered or glazed doughnuts (extra good if warmed for a few minutes in the oven) and Dressed Up Doughnuts on a serving tray. To prepare Dressed Up Doughnuts: Split cake doughnuts, butter, sprinkle with flaked coconut, drained crushed pineapple and brown sugar; top with half of a maraschino cherry; slip under broiler until bubbly.

Popcorn:

Parmesan—Melt $\frac{1}{4}$ cup ($\frac{1}{2}$ stick) butter in a saucepan; add $\frac{1}{4}$ cup grated Parmesan cheese and $\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoon salt. Pour over $1\frac{1}{2}$ -2 quarts hot freshly popped popcorn. Toss.

Cheddar—Melt $\frac{1}{4}$ cup ($\frac{1}{2}$ stick) butter in a saucepan; add $\frac{1}{2}$ cup shredded Cheddar cheese and $\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoon salt. Pour over $1\frac{1}{2}$ -2 quarts hot freshly popped popcorn. Toss.

Garlic—Melt $\frac{1}{4}$ cup ($\frac{1}{2}$ stick) butter in a saucepan; add $\frac{1}{8}$ teaspoon garlic salt and $\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoon salt. Pour over $1\frac{1}{2}$ -2 quarts hot freshly popped popcorn. Toss.

Chili—Melt $\frac{1}{4}$ cup ($\frac{1}{2}$ stick) butter in a saucepan; add $\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoon chili powder and 1 teaspoon salt. Pour over $1\frac{1}{2}$ -2 quarts hot freshly popped popcorn. Toss.

Chocolate Milk

Heat 1 quart chocolate milk to desired serving temperature in a heavy saucepan. Stir in 2 tablespoons instant coffee powder OR 6 tablespoons instant malted milk powder. Serve immediately or pour into warmer to keep hot until ready to serve. Yield: 1 quart.

WINTER SNACK BUFFET

New Expansion Needs No Explanation

By Abigail Van Buren

1974 by Chicago Tribune
N.Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I'm 26, happily married and flat as a board. My husband knows that I've always wanted a big bosom, so he agreed for me to see a plastic surgeon about silicone implants. The date for my surgery has been set, but my problem is, what do I tell people?

I know it's none of their business, but this is a rather small town and gossip is what the people around here live on.

My husband and I run a small cafe. He cooks and I serve, and all our customers know I've got no bust, and if I suddenly go into the hospital for two days, am off work for two weeks, and then I show up at the cafe with a pair of 38s, won't they figure it out?

I'm a lousy liar, and if the truth gets out, I'm afraid people will be coming to the cafe to get a look at me.

NERVOUS IN NEVADA

DEAR NERVOUS: You don't owe anyone any explanations. It's not unusual for a woman to go into a hospital for "a little surgery." And a two-weeks recuperating period isn't unusual either. As for the improved figure—enjoy it, and don't feel compelled to explain it.

DEAR ABBY: My problem is my guilt. I had a very unhappy childhood because of my father. He used to beat my mother (and still does) and he'd beat us kids until we were a mass of welts. I hate him, and can't tell you the number of times I wished him dead. He doesn't drink, and he goes to church, but you'd never know it. He only hits people who can't fight back. It's always someone weaker than he is. He's the cruellest man I know. He went into a rage once after he beat Mom up and broke all the windows in our house.

We are all married now and can't understand why Mom still stays with him. We've all told her she can come and live with any of us.

My husband welcomes my mother in our home, but not my father because my father once started slapping Mom around in our house and my husband has barred him from our property ever since.

I feel so guilty having a wonderful husband and family and knowing what Mom is putting up with. Thanks for listening.

GUILTY DAUGHTER
DEAR DAUGHTER: If your mother knows that she is welcome to live with any of her children, but continues to stay with your father and takes the abuse you describe, she is as sick as he is. And he is sick, sick, sick. No need for you to feel guilty. Your parents need a psychiatrist with two couches.

DEAR ABBY: Will you please clear up something for me? My husband has two children by a former marriage. They live with their mother. What am I to them? Am I their stepmother? I told my husband that I was NOT their step mother because their mother is still living. He became angry and asked me what I thought I was—if not their stepmother.

I told him I was just their father's wife.

Am I wrong or right?

WHO AM I
DEAR WHO: Your husband is right. Stepmother is the wife of one's father by a subsequent marriage.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

HOME ECONOMICS

(Extension Service)

SOME FOODS ARE PLENTIFUL

Some popular foods that were scarce and unusually high priced a year ago are now more abundant. Prices may not have declined below last year's levels, but neither are they rising as rapidly as last year. The foods in this group are rice, raisins, nuts and dry beans and peas says Louise K. Breitung, Home Economist.

Two protein-rich vegetables, dry beans and dry peas, are plentiful now. The production of dry beans is a record—31 per cent more than last year. Dry pea production will be more than double last year.

Dry beans and peas need little special treatment for storage. Once the package is opened, keep the beans or peas in a tightly covered glass, metal or plastic container that will shut out dust and insects. The storage area should be cool and dry. Stored properly, dry beans and peas will keep their quality for several months.

Plentiful supplies of rice now offer a welcome change from last year. The crop this year is a record 22 percent above last year and 29 percent higher than the 1971-73 average. Much of the increase is the result of more land devoted to growing rice, combined with a greater yield per acre.

Rice keeps almost indefinitely when covered and stored in a cool, dry place. With normal use, keep rice in the original purchase container. Rice may also be kept in a plastic, metal or glass container provided it has a tight-fitting lid to keep out dust, moisture and insects.

NUTS

Several nuts are plentiful. Peanut stocks at the end of the summer were 47 percent more than they were last year at the same time. Large carry-over stocks of walnuts are still available from the record crop last year, and the almond crop this year is expected to top the record crops of 1973 and 1971 by 34 percent.

Consumer demand for nuts this time of year is great, and prices are not likely to go much lower. However prices may vary for different types of nuts that are often interchangeable in use. You may want to choose a less expensive nut in place of one that is higher in price. For example, peanuts cost less than almonds but serve some of the same uses.

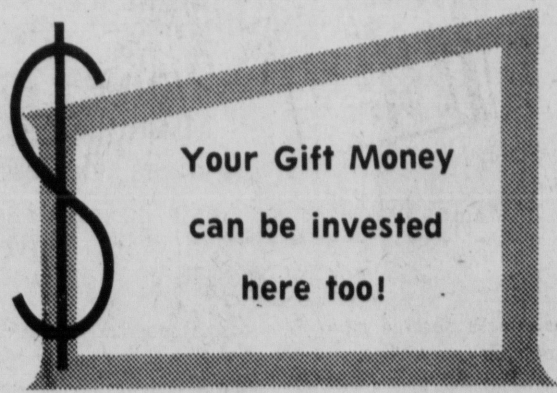

Store nuts in a cool dry place. Nuts in the shell can be stored at room temperature. Shelled nuts should be tightly covered and refrigerated. Nuts in the shell will stay fresh longer than the shelled, and whole nuts will not become rancid as quickly as chopped nuts.

RAISINS

Although production of grapes for raisins this year is about the same as last, raisin stocks as of the end of the summer were much larger than last year's small stocks. This means the amount of raisins now available is greater than last year.

Artistic Yule Arrangements Displayed

Rhinebeck Garden Club members held a Christmas party at the Church of the Messiah parish hall in Rhinebeck. Mrs. Carl Anderson was in charge of special Christmas arrangements featuring traditional greens and legends. Nine members presented displays. They included: Mrs. Paul Delfino, "Ivy;" Mrs. Ernest Foss, "Evergreens;" Mrs. Howard Kelly, "Holly;" Mrs. Edmond DiCambio, "Poinsettia;" Mrs. John H. White Jr., "Juniper;" Mrs. Carl Anderson, "Hark, the Herald Angels Sing;" Mrs. Edward Bergles, "Silent Night."

Two versions of the "Nativity" were presented by Mrs. Jack Butti and Mrs. Mary Butti, pictured here with her Mother and Child display. The Altar Scene, at left, was another of the arrangements.

An annual event, the social includes a luncheon and exchange of tree ornaments. The ornaments were distributed by Mrs. Alvin Wanzler who pinched for Santa Claus. Mrs. Horace Baker officiated at the program, leading the group in the singing of Christmas carols. Serving as hostess was Mrs. Edward Bergles, assisted by Mrs. Alvin Bahret, Miss Margaret Currie, Mrs. Joseph Griffing, and Mrs. William McVey. (Freeman photos)

HINTS FROM HELOISE

Dear Heloise:

My kitchen is on the north side of the house, but it isn't dark because I have two nice sized windows.

I placed a narrow oblong box such as a plastic wrap comes in, to fit the space between the window and the screen, added some florist clay and artificial flowers. I call it my flower garden.

I did not clutter the space with too many flowers nor did I let them be too tall. My colors blend with the kitchen. I change them ever so often.

Mary Smith

Why not be merry, Mary!
Heloise

Dear Heloise:

Please tell all the people who print and give away grocery coupons to please make the expiration date more readable!

It is usually tucked away amidst a lot of fine print on the reverse and upside down side of the coupon.

To find the expiration date takes a lot of time and effort — pity the poor checkout person too.

You would be doing a lot of us a big service to drop the manufacturers a hint . . .

Jean

You just did 'luv' . . .

Heloise

Dear Heloise:

After losing two or three car gas caps and coming close to losing several more, I came up with the following idea when using a self-service gas station.

Take the money from your billfold or purse before you put the gas in the car. Remove the gas cap and put the money under the cap wherever you lay it (on the trunk or even the car seat).

Then you have to pick up the gas cap before you can pay for the gas. Just remember to put it back on right then. No forgotten gas cap. Works every time!

Mrs. Irma Hardin

Dear Heloise:

If you do any Oriental cooking, freeze your fresh ginger, and grate off however much your recipe requires. Then return root to freezer.

Ginger is a must in Oriental or Polynesian dishes.

Evelyn Strohl

Dear Heloise:

When my husband and son papered our dining room, I mixed the paste. We used a wheat paste mixture and I had trouble getting it smooth until I got the idea of using my hand mixer.

It really solved the problem and all the lumps disappeared in no time at all.

Mrs. Rita Repacky

Dear Heloise:

Here is a good hint I've kept for years and have never seen another one like it so far. It has proven a blessing over and over through the years.

Give limp dacron or glass fiber curtains a new look by rinsing (by hand) in a solution of one cup of epsom salts and one gallon lukewarm water. Even ruffled ones won't need ironing. This much solution will do long curtains for four big windows.

Experimenting a little will soon let you be aware of exactly how much salts is needed for various curtains. I do not even use curtain stretchers — just hang on clotheslines.

Mrs. Miriam Davis

Dear Heloise:

I am learning to knit and my teacher said we needed a yarnholder. Instead of buying one, we made it. Teacher took an old oatmeal carton and covered it with adhesive-backed paper and put a hole in the lid. (The hole is for the yarn to come out of.)

Put the whole skein of yarn in the oatmeal carton and shut the lid. Pull a little of the yarn out and it's ready to go. This is not only practical but inexpensive too.

Mary Ryan

Dear Heloise:

On a car trip sometime ago, my husband discovered a very neat way to clean the greasy film that seems to accumulate on the inside of our car windows. Needless to say, this film presents a driving hazard.

He just used a packaged, pre-moistened towelette and the film disappeared with no effort or mess.

Now we keep a box in the car and even at home my husband uses these towelettes instead of window cleaner because they seem to work quicker and easier on the car windows.

Ruth Reingold

Dear Heloise:

Having trouble getting those labels off jars and bottles? Just scratch the label all over with sharp sandpaper.

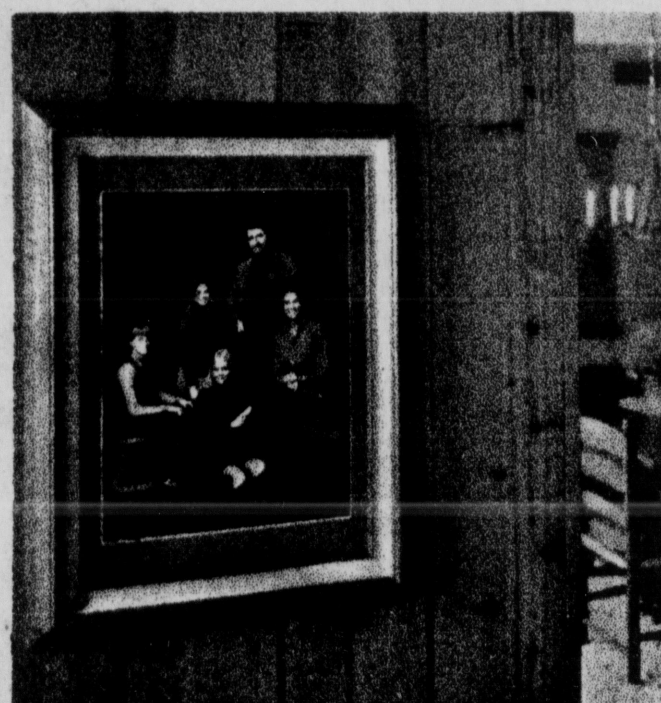

Soak for three minutes and the label comes right off. Simple! You can remove any gummy residue with alcohol or cooking oil.

Merrill Holste

Pocket Knives Offer Novelty

By Jean Barnes

In the scramble to collect, collectors often overlook many small, seemingly unimportant objects.

That's why Bill Rodgers enjoys collecting pocket knives. They are small, still fairly easy to find in his Colorado-Kansas area and prices are reasonable.

Too, there's the thrill of finding something unusual or unknown which adds to the store of information about the American pocket knife, he said.

In the more than 150 years since Henry Harrington owned and operated the first cutlery manufactory in the United States literally hundred of makers have gone into and out of business. So much so, he pointed out, that there are large gaps in our history of the fold-up knife.

Although the knife was an indispensable tool to the pioneers, most of them were imported from England or Germany. The beginning of World War I and restricted tariff laws at the turn of the century gave added importance to the American pocket knife industry.

Knives made between 1900 and 1920 are the ones most sought after by collectors. However, rumours circulated from one collector to another concerning makers going out of business or discontinuing production of certain styles have created a certain demand for even new knives, the collector said.

To the uninitiated, the names Jack knife and pen knife are synonymous with pocket knife. However the term Jack knife refers to any knife with not more than two blades opening from the same end. A pen knife is small with blades opening from opposite ends.

Businessmen have used the pocket knife as an advertising medium for nearly a century. Because of this it is possible to build a really fine collection of knives in the shape of a beverage bottle or a baseball bat. Anheuser-Busch Inc., St. Louis, Mo., distributed pocket knives to beer distributors and friends from the 1880s to the early 1900s. They were silver, pearl, bone or enamel. Many of them had a small peephole through which a likeness of Adolphus Busch could be seen.

Because pocket knives were generally a masculine accessory some of the advertising was considered pretty spicy for that era and included pictures of dancing girls, bathing beauties. Some were made in the shape of a feminine leg.

The field of pocket knife collecting is large enough for all interests and a collection can take many forms. Pocket knife collecting has attracted many enthusiasts over the years and perhaps the most illustrious name among collectors is that of Abraham Lincoln.

Helen Jones Retires
As YWCA Director

Helen Jones will retire as executive director of the YWCA of Dutchess County December 31.

According to Pat Nestork, president of the "Y", a successor has been chosen, but as yet remains unannounced.

Honored at a bon voyage party at the YWCA facility on Bancroft Road, Helen Jones recalled part of the "five years and four months" she directed YWCA activities.

"The biggest thing has been the move to Bancroft Road." For many years YWCA facilities were located in Cannon Street. The Cannon Street building has since been razed and now the center for all "Y" functions is at the Cedarcliff building.

"Although the basic goals of the 'Y' haven't changed," said Helen, "we have increasingly become more involved with the community and more aware of our role of working with the community and its needs."

"We're moving to get a women's counseling center started," she said, describing it as a vehicle which will aid the 30 to 45-year-old.

"We're trying to prevent the wreckage of humanity. At this point in time women are trying to get their heads together and the 'Y' is trying to help."

Personal plans are "open," said Helen. "They probably will include travel . . . and for the present I shall make this area my home."

Puppet Program Is Held Over

The Puppetree Children's Theatre will repeat its program in the Community Hall at the Mammoth Mall Shopping Center Saturday at 1 and 3 p.m. The 45 minute production, a series of short skits and musical numbers, entertained crowds of children last weekend while parents did their holiday shopping.

The Puppetree Children's Theatre is a new concept in the Marionette art. The entire show is a one-man operation and is an amazing feat of coordination and talent. It is produced and directed by Steve Gottlieb, area marionette craftsman.

Gottlieb did many months of research and collecting tales and fables from old English puppet books in order to prepare this entertaining program. The well known plays, "The Three Wishes," "The Shy Puppet," and "The Real Clown" appear in these performances. The ageless tale, "Nail Soup," promises to delight children of all ages.

After last week's performance, Gottlieb remarked about the enthusiastic reception of his young audience. He expects to see another laughing and happy crowd this Saturday. According to the marionette craftsman, "Puppetree Theatre is dedicated to the child inside everyone of us."

Yule Parties

Ulster Senior Citizens Club held a Christmas dinner party December 11 at Holiday Inn with 87 members in attendance. Guests included Carmen Sabino, supervisor of the Town of Ulster; Joseph Lohmaier, town assessor; and Sherwood Davis, justice of the peace.

Russell Brott, club advisor, although unable to be present, had enrolled all of the senior citizens in the Mass Association of the Franciscan Fathers, Springdale, Conn., for one year beginning Christmas Day. All Senior Citizens are invited to St. Catherine of Labour Church December 29 when the choir will give a recital following the Mass.

There will be no meeting in January for the club but meetings will resume February 5.

A Christmas party for members of Queen Ulster Rebekah Lodge No. 34 will be held at the next meeting January 7. Each member is asked to bring a friend or husband, a gift for exchange marked for a lady or gentleman and a covered dish for the supper to be served at 6:30 p.m. Noble Grand Blanche Dunn has appointed Josie Dederick, Ruth Transom, Hilda Van Etten and Theresa Taylor as a committee to make arrangements for the evening. The regular meeting will be held at 8.

At the recent December meeting a Christmas party for the children, members and friends was held. The Christmas story was read and shown in film by the Rev. Frederick J. Imhoff. Gifts were exchanged and Santa Claus visited with the children.

The following visiting committee has been appointed: Ruby Miller, Louise Boice, vice-grand and noble grand.

Doing the Right Thing

By Elizabeth L. Post

1974 The Emily Post Institute, Inc.
Distributed by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Syndicate, Inc.

Dear Mrs. Post: My husband and I were in Jamaica, and we tipped people for their services at the same rate we would tip in the United States.

We were told quite often that our tips were not enough, and that those giving us services expected more. Besides being rude, weren't these chastizers also wrong? Aren't tips fairly standard worldwide?

Debera
Dear Debera: You were quite right to tip as we do in the United States. If the hints that you were not tipping enough came from those receiving your tips, it was simply a crude attempt to gouge more out of a foreigner, and if they came from others, it was none of their business.

Americans have the reputation—perhaps a foolishly earned one—of being lavish tippers, and they are often taken advantage of because of unsureness or ignorance.

Fifteen per cent is still a generous tip, at least in tourist-oriented countries, and if you used that as a guideline, you did all that you needed to.

Dear Mrs. Post: My fiancé is planning to give a toast to my mother at our rehearsal dinner next month. My father died recently. My fiancé knew him well and would like to include him in this toast. Would this be possible? Could you help us with a suggestion for a brief toast that would not be too emotional and upsetting to my mother and to us?

Annette
Dear Annette: If your fiancé plans to make a fairly long toast with anecdotes or references to your younger days, he could include your father in some of the stories. The actual toast, however, must be to your mother only since you cannot very well offer wishes (and that is what a toast actually is doing) to someone who is deceased.

Your fiancé could include him partially by saying something like this: "Here's to Janet's mother, and to the wonderful upbringing she and Mr. Hint gave Jane to make her such a great girl."

Whom do you tip? When, and how much? You will find the answers to these questions in my booklet, "The Etiquette of Tipping." To get a copy, send 50¢ in coins to cover booklet and mailing expenses to Elizabeth L. Post, in care of this newspaper.

LOG TOTE

"Does everyone know about the 'Kimball Carrier'?" asks John Hawkins, of Uxbridge, Ontario, Canada. "It's a device that makes the stacking end of the wood-splitting chore much easier and consists of nothing but a piece of canvas and a bit of rope."

"I was struggling along, trying to carry cordwood in a bushel basket, when Mike Kimball—a friend of mine—showed me how to do the job a better way. I whipped my carrier together in about twenty minutes, using braided binder twine for the rope. The log tote adapts itself to the shape of the wood you're carrying, keeps dirt off your clothes and allows you to handle split and unsplit firewood without scratching up your arms."

Dr. Lamb Cause Unknown
For Ear Buzzing

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB—I have what my doctor describes as Meniere's disease. It is located in my right ear where I have little or no hearing and I'm always dizzy. There is also a constant buzzing.

Could you give me a little information on this as to what causes it, if there is a cure, and any other information on it as I am very interested. The dizziness is quite severe.

DEAR READER—It's a fairly common problem. Typically it is characterized by buzzing or ringing in the ear or ears, which doctors call tinnitus, with loss of hearing and dizziness.

A group of patients have similar complaints without the hearing loss, and they are called "pseudo-Meniere's disease" meaning false Meniere's disease. Many of these develop the hearing loss later and are then properly classified as Meniere's disease.

Some patients have nausea, vomiting and sensations of fainting with the attacks. The disease causes sudden attacks, then symptoms subside. The severe attacks may last a few minutes or several hours. During the severe attack the illusion of movement that the patient calls dizziness may be so bad that the patient cannot walk.

Either one or both ears can be involved. The hearing loss may precede the other characteristics of the disease. The hearing loss is usually worse during the severe attack. As the attacks recur the hearing gets progressively worse.

The buzzing in the ear may be constant even between severe attacks. Incidentally, this is only one of many causes of ringing in the ears, so I hope everyone who has this symptom will not immediately conclude they have Meniere's disease.

The attacks of dizziness sometimes cease after the hearing is totally lost in the affected ear. Many patients have remissions of the attacks and may go for years without a recurrence of the attacks.

The problem seems to involve the delicate semicircular canals and hearing parts of the ear. It is not a disease of the nerve between the ear and the brain or of any part of the brain.

Just why the delicate ear organ goes berserk isn't known.
Some doctors think it is because of an accumulation of excess fluid in the complex structure of the ear. In cases where the hearing has been totally lost removal of the inner ear mechanism has provided relief, demonstrating that the problem is in the ear, not the brain.

Most attacks can be controlled by various medicines the doctor uses to counteract dizziness, including those used to prevent motion sickness. Other measures have also been used, including a low-salt diet with variable results. It is fair to say that no one form of treatment has been a cure-all for all patients with this problem. It is important to have continued checks of your hearing and evaluation of your progress. While your doctor can't be expected to cure your problem, he can give you medicines that will provide a great deal of relief and make it possible for you to get along much better, specifically limiting or preventing disabling attacks.

Stocks

NEW YORK (UPI) — The stock market, following the Christmas holiday, opened higher today in moderately active trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

The Dow Jones industrial average, which gained more than eight points Tuesday, was ahead 0.39 point at 598.79 shortly after the opening. Advances led declines, 182 to 104, among the 478 issues crossing the tape.

Turnover amounted to about 340,000 shares.

Tuesday's unexpected gain spurred hopes a year-end rally still may be possible. There has been little in the news background to influence the market recently, most analysts said.

Early prices included:

Endangered Species

An Indian tiger, remnant of an endangered species, frolics in a New Delhi Zoo recently. Once plentiful on the Indian subcontinent, the magnificent cats now face extinction, according to some authorities. Less than 35 years ago India's tiger population was placed at more than 50,000. Today, by official estimate, there are fewer than 2,000 left. The steep decline is said to be due almost entirely to the killing of tigers by men. (UPI)

China Grain Harvest

HONG KONG (UPI) — China reaped its biggest grain harvest in history this year, Peking Radio reported today.

The report gave no production figures but said "output shows a fairly big increase over 1973."

The 1973 harvest, also a record, exceeded 250 million tons, Chinese agricultural officials told UPI late last year.

Some Japanese economists said they were told a few months ago that the 1973 harvest was about 257 million tons.

Analysts specializing in Chinese economic affairs said the 1974 harvest probably would go over the 260 million ton mark. A few predicted a yield as high as 270 million tons.

Peking Radio said that besides grain, "harvests of cotton, oil, hemp, sugar and other industrial crops are excellent" as the crucial fourth year of the nation's current five-year plan drew to a close.

The broadcast also reported "fresh successes" in other agricultural sectors such as forestry, livestock production and fisheries.

"Good crops were reaped in nearly all parts of the country," the report said. "Particularly noteworthy are the speedy rises in grain production in traditionally disaster-ridden, low-yield areas with poor natural conditions."

It said the big harvest was achieved despite "fairly serious" natural disasters, such as floods, drought, windstorms, hail, frost and insects.

China analysts said much of the credit for overcoming these problems must be attributed to off season preparations, particularly in the field of water conservation projects.

Peking Radio said tens of millions of peasants moved more than 6 billion cubic meters of earth and stone while working on irrigation and other land improvement projects.

"More than 3.3 million hectares (7.2 million acres) of irrigated fields were added or improved and 1.6 million hectares (3.52 million acres) of land were protected against waterlogging," the radio report said.

Another factor in the rise in grain production was an increase in state capital investment in agriculture, Peking Radio said. But it provided no investment figures.

'Fascinating and Unusual Institution'... Bard President

Annandale-on-Hudson Bard College is "a fascinating and unusual institution," says newlyappointed president Leon Botstein.

Botstein, presently president of Franconia College in New Hampshire, has been appointed 14th president of the small liberal arts college in Red Hook.

He was the youngest college president in American history when he took the post of Franconia College president in 1970 at the age of 23. The decision to appoint him at Bard was announced by Edgar A. Hatfield, chairman of the Bard College Board of Trustees.

The college's Presidential Search Committee considered 281 applicants for a replacement to Dr. Reamer Kline, and interviewed 43 candidates.

The report to the board concluded: "Leon Botstein offers the best blend of administrative experience, fund raising ability, academic and intellectual interest, dynamic leadership, and youthful vigor of any candidate the committee has considered."

Botstein said: "I have accepted the position as president of Bard College because of my continuing interest in the distinctive college, in the small, private institution that possesses the flexibility and desire to provide a unique educational experience marked by originality and excellence.

"My concerns encompass the attempt to create an environment... supportive to both the artistic and academic areas in the social sciences and humanities, and which is conducive to a serious approach to the teaching of science in a liberal arts setting," he said.

Botstein remarked that a major task of the distinctive private college is to "re-define and re-establish the very special place and contribution of a coherent liberal arts education."

He added that the school's history, including the unusual leadership Dean Tewksbury and the history of artistic excellence and commitment to general education and academic quality "make it a fascinating and unusual institution."

The new president is a graduate of the University of Chicago, has an M.A. in history from Harvard where he is a doctoral candidate. He is an accomplished violinist and conductor, having performed with orchestras at Tanglewood and at other places.

From 1960 to June, 1974 the Rev. Reamer Kline headed Bard. During that time the college tripled its enrollment, increased faculty pay by more than 100 per cent, and strengthened offerings and facilities as well as scholarship and endowment programs.

In his statement of resignation in Oct., 1973 Dr. Kline said of Bard's next president: "... he or she should be young and have a real sense of what a college should be and do in these present days and in the years ahead. And he should have an appreciative perception of Bard's special qualities and place as a college."

Cleanup Permits

ELLENVILLE Ellenville Community Hospital and Channel Master in Ellenville are two of 17 facilities for which the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA), Region II, has proposed to issue water pollution cleanup permits under the 1972 Federal Water Pollution Control Act Amendments.

The law requires every facility that discharges pollutants into a waterway to apply for a permit. The permits are being proposed by the EPA pending approval of state plans to carry on the program.

Each permit will limit the discharges of specific types of effluent, and will set up a phased schedule for any further necessary cleanup effort.

The permits will require the use by industries of the "best practicable" water pollution control technology by July 1, 1977, or more stringent controls if needed to achieve water quality goals on a specific stream.

Failure to comply with a requirement of the permit would constitute a violation, for which the permit holder could be liable to prosecution by state or federal authorities.

In addition, the EPA announced that Shell Oil company was challenging standards set for its Milton plant, Amerada Hess Corp. the standards set for its Poughkeepsie plant, and Exxon Corp. those for its Newburgh plant, among other challenges.

Attend Confab

KINGSTON Two members of the board of directors of the Ulster County SPCA attended the 1974 Annual Conference of the Humane Society of the United States held recently in Oak Brook, Ill. They participated in meetings on the treatment of animals in the filming of movies, the humane treatment of livestock, how to control surplus cat and dog populations and several other animal welfare topics.

Letters going across Kingston need Zip Codes just as much as letters going across the country.

Giants' John Hicks Chosen UPI's NFC Rookie of Year

NEW YORK (UPI) — Offensive guard John Hicks, whose crunching blocking and pass protecting provided some of the few bright spots in an otherwise dismal season for the New York Giants, today was named the United Press International's 1974 National Football Conference Rookie of the Year.

Hicks, a No. 1 draft choice out of Ohio State who proved to be a real "blue chipper," became the first offensive lineman, other than an end, to gain the honor in the 20-year history of the award. He won by a slim one vote over running back Wilbur Jackson of the San Francisco 49ers in the nationwide balloting of 39 sports writers, three from each NFC city.

Hicks received 13 votes compared to 12 for Jackson who, after a brilliant collegiate career at Alabama, ranked eighth in rushing in the NFC with 705 yards on the ground despite missing a couple of games because of injuries. The only other rookie to get more than two votes was linetackler Waymond Bryant of the Chicago Bears who was named on four ballots.

The Giants finished the 1973 season with a 2-12 record, tied with Baltimore for the worst mark in the National Football League, but it was hardly the fault of the 6-foot-2, 260 pound Hicks who, along with fellow rookie guard Tom Mullen of Southwestern State, gave the Giants one of the better offensive lines in the league.

"You really can't measure an individual performance such as mine in view of the team's poor record," said Hicks, who, along with an All America selection, also won both the Outland Trophy and Lombardi Trophy during his senior year at Ohio State. "I really didn't expect to start this year and I had a lot of learning to do. I tried to reach a point of consistency."

Asked if he had any trouble mastering the art of pass blocking since he came from Ohio State where head coach Woody Hayes' teams are noted mainly for the r fearsome running attacks, Hicks replied:

"Even though it always seemed we ran a lot at Ohio State, I still worked a lot on pass protection. 'I had a good fundamental background thanks to my coach there—Ralph Staub."

Despite the Giants' poor record this year, Hicks foresees a bright future for the club. "We never really got blown out in any of our games and (Bill) Arnsparger is a great coach," Hayes said. "It's only a matter of time until we improve. We now have a set quarterback in Craig Morton and we believe in him and he believes in us."

Hicks named defensive tackles Joe Greene of Pittsburgh and Jethro Pugh of Dallas as the two toughest opponents he had to handle in his first year in the pros.

"We played Pittsburgh during the pre-season and that Greene was just unbelievable," Hicks said. "But in the NFL, unlike college, everybody is good."

It's That Time of Year . . . College Cage Tourneys Open

'Tis the season to be jolly—especially if you're a college basketball fan.

Starting today or Friday, 26 major tournaments with a duration of between two to five days will get underway around the land. Enough college hoop action for anybody.

Eight of these classics begin play today, the most glamorous of them perhaps the five day Rainbow Classic in Honolulu. Among the eight teams participating will be second ranked Indiana, bringing an 8-0 record into the event.

Other teams entered are Florida, Hawaii, Ohio State, Pennsylvania, San Jose State, Tulsa and Villanova, with the 11th ranked Quakers, 6-0, expected to provide the Hoosiers with their toughest competition.

No. 1 North Carolina State is one of the few ranked teams not involved in tourney action; the Wolfpack, 6-0, takes on Kent State Friday and Pittsburgh Saturday.

Fourth rated Louisville is the favorite as the host in the two day Fidelity Holiday Classic, but they're likely to have to beat No. 13 Purdue en route. Florida State and Western Kentucky are also entered.

In a reduced field, fifth ranked Southern California looms as the choice against St. Joseph's (Pa.) and four local teams in New York's five day Holiday Festival. Rutgers, No. 20, figures as the likely final opponent for the Trojans in the six-team tourney — reduced from last year's 16—but Manhattan, Fordham and Seton Hall, because of their local backers, cannot be ruled out.

Ninth ranked Arizona State meets seven foes in the five day Far West Classic, with No. 14 Oregon its chief opponent. Boston College, Creighton, Iowa, Oregon State, Wake Forest and Washington State are the others.

No. 17 Oklahoma is the other Top 20 team in action today, visiting Kansas City, Mo. for the five-day Big Eight Classic. Colorado, Iowa State, Kansas State, Kansas, Missouri, Nebraska and Oklahoma State oppose the Sooners.

The other tourneys starting today are the two-day Gator Bowl in Jacksonville, Fla. and the Poinsettia Classic in Greenville, S.C., and the four-day AllCollege tourney in Oklahoma City, Okla.

At Jacksonville, Memphis State is favored against Jacksonville, Penn State and Temple; Furman is the choice at Greenville versus Baylor, Lafayette and Washington and host Oklahoma City should prevail over Centenary, Niagara, North Texas State, Pacific, UNC Charlotte, Wyoming and Xavier.

The top classics lined up to start Friday include the Maryland Invitational at College Park, Md., with No. 3 UCLA and No. 7 Maryland; and the four-day ECAC Tourney at Providence, R.I., including 10th-ranked South Carolina and 16th ranked Providence.

The other Top 20 teams in holiday tourneys are No. 12 Arizona in the Old Dominion Classic at Norfolk, Va. and Marquette, ranked 18th, in the Milwaukee Classic.

Bristow at Home in Backcourt

By UPI

Allan Bristow, a 6-foot 7 center in college and a "natural forward," played his first game ever at guard Wednesday night and gave himself a late Christmas gift and an early wedding present.

Bristow, who is set to marry Etoile Vance in Alexandria, Va., Saturday evening, never even practiced at guard but was informed by coach Gene Shue just before the game that he "should be prepared to play some backcourt."

Bristow proceeded to score a career high 23 points and pace the Philadelphia 76ers to a 104-97 upset victory over the slumping New York Knicks at Madison Square Garden.

"I called Etoile this morning to tell her I love her and to say Merry Christmas," said Bristow, a second year forward from Virginia Tech who averaged only 4.7 points per game as a rookie.

Bristow and Billy Cunningham scored 14 points apiece in the second half to bring Philadelphia back from a 10-point halftime deficit. At one point in the second quarter, the Knicks led by 16.

Philadelphia took the lead for the first time, 89-88, on a layup by Steve Mix with 3:50 remaining in the game. The game was then tied three times before New York center

John Gianelli fouled out trying to stop Fred Carter. Carter hit the two free throws and gave Philadelphia a 95-93 lead it never lost. Bristow and Cunningham combined to give the 76ers some lively offensive rebounding down the stretch to secure the victory.

Bristow will have a little more time to honeymoon with his bride, whose first name means "star" in French, than most ballplayers do when they marry during the season. After tonight's game in Chicago, the 76ers don't play again until next Friday.

"But I've got to report to practice Sunday at 2pm," said Bristow.

Now that's dedication. Before he left the locker room, Bristow flipped six cold beers into his satchel. "When he gets married,

In the only other NBA action, Phoenix whipped Boston 110-96 and Washington ripped Atlanta 110-92.

Charlie Scott scored 30 points and Keith Erickson 25 as Phoenix survived a fourth quarter scare to beat Boston. Scott and Erickson's performances offset a season high 33 points by Boston's Jo Jo White. White, Dave Cowens with 23 and John Havlicek with 15 were the only Celtics in double figures.

Each team had 40 field goals, but the Suns converted 30 of 33 free throws while Boston was making 16 of 23. The Celtics moved to within three, 96-93, with five minutes left, but two free throws by Scott and a layup by Erickson with an assist from Scott put the Suns out of reach.

Bullets 110, Hawks 92

Paced by Mike Riordan's scoring and Kevin Porter's stealing, Washington Bullets outscored Atlanta 32-11 in the second period and rolled to an easy victory. The Bullets converted six steals by Porter and 14 Atlanta turnovers into easy second period baskets in moving to their 25th win in 34 games, best in the NBA. Riordan finished with a game high 24 points while teammates Elvin Hayes and Phil Chenier scored 19 points each. Porter had 14. Wes Unseld grabbed 21 rebounds and Hayes 12 as Washington outbounded Atlanta 63-43.

John Brown, who scored 13 points in the third period, finished with a career high 28 points for Atlanta.

Stars Lack Killer Instinct

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — Utah coach Morris "Bucky" Buckwalter says his Stars lack one thing that is keeping them out of the top of the American Basketball Association Western Division standings.

"We still don't have that killer instinct," said Buckwalter after Utah survived two rallies by San Diego Christmas night to down the Conquistadors 112-100 in the only ABA action.

"When we get ahead by 10 points, we don't drive for the basket to force them to foul. We're still sitting outside, shooting over the defense. If we miss a couple of long shots, we give them a chance to catch up."

Utah led by six points in the first half, but San Diego rallied to take a 48-46 edge at the intermission break. Then the Stars rattled off 11 straight points midway through the third quarter and led 80-72 at the start of the final period.

"When we had them down that much the pressure should have been on them," Buckwalter said. "But our players wouldn't change their style of play. We missed a couple of long baskets, and San Diego was back in the game."

"We should've been working to the basket instead of taking the outside shots that let them off the hook. We've got to develop that killer instinct if we're going to finish the season first or second in the ABA West." Guard Ron Boone scored 13 of his game high 27 points in the final seven minutes as Utah finally stopped the Conquistadors.

Packer Greats

Filion Will Be on Outside For Sunday's MR Card

MONTICELLO, N. Y. (UPI) — The most-victorious harness driver in North America will soon find himself in an unusual position—handicapped by post position because of his string of successes.

Next Sunday at Monticello Raceway, Herve Filion will receive the outside post position in all of the races he competes in on the matinee card at the track in Sullivan County. Leon Greenberg, Monticello president, has received permission from the State Racing and Wagering Board for the 34-year-old French-Canadian sulky ace to race from the outside in all his starts.

Trainers with standardbreds drawing the extreme position have agreed to assign their horses to Filion.

Last Sunday at Monticello, Filion beat world champion driver Hans Fromm of West Germany in a head-to-head competition, 65 points to 49. Points were awarded on a descending scale of eight for a first place finish to one for an eighth place finish. Greenberg has promised Filion a Fiat sports car if he tops this point sum on Sunday in the same scoring system.

Packers Pin Their Hopes on Starr

GREEN BAY, Wis. (UPI) — The Green Bay Packers have pinned their hopes on Bart Starr, the man who led them to a football dynasty on the field.

Starr's appointment as coach and general manager was officially announced Tuesday but it was strictly an after-the-fact declaration of what everyone knew—Starr, the people's choice, was going to be the new Packer boss.

In his quiet, unassuming way Starr took over the team in the news conference after the announcement. He didn't make big promises, he just said he would do the best job he could.

"I ask for the prayers and the patience of all packer fans," Starr said. "We will earn everything else."

Starr, the winningest championship quarterback in pro football history, the player the late Vince Lombardi made famous, was named to take over the Packers eight days after Dan Devine quit to become head coach at Notre Dame.

It is Starr's first head coaching job though he has had many offers, lucrative ones at that, to coach in the past.

"I've been a little disappointed in my travels around the country to see somewhat of a slip by the Green Bay Packers," he said. "I hope to restore some of the prestige that was so much a part of this organization for many years."

"Everyone has to pull together from within. There can be no bickering. I hope to build on the great lessons we learned from Coach Lombardi."

Outgoing Coach Devine later said Starr also will have a good team to build on.

"I know it's (the team) going to be a winner," he said. "It can't help but be a winner. I wish I could have inherited a team like I'm leaving. There's no way they can't make it to the Super bowl."

Devine also said he thought the Packers made a good choice in their selection of Starr.

Green Bay had interviewed only two men, Starr and Green Bay assistant Dave Hanner, for the coaching vacancy. Starr met with the Packers executive committee in two prolonged sessions Monday.

Starr, who will be 41 Jan. 8, led the Packers to five NFL and two Super Bowl titles in seven years. He was the most valuable player in each of the first two Super Bowls.

A painful arm injury hampered his final years with Green Bay and he was forced to retire after the 1971 season when a series of operations failed to correct the problem.

He spent the 1972 season as an assistant to Devine, but quit after that one season to go into business.

Starr said no decision had been made on his coaching staff, although he has asked Hanner, a teammate during Starr's playing days, to stay on as defensive coordinator.

"We hope to surround ourselves with people with diverse backgrounds—people who enjoy representing pro football," Starr said.

Although he said he was "absolutely ecstatic about this opportunity," Starr emphasized that he "was not awed by it."

Player-Coach Bidding for Congars

CHICAGO (UPI) — Chicago Cougars Player-Coach Pat Stapleton says negotiations on his part to buy the financially troubled World Hockey Association team "look favorable," despite speculation that the league will announce today that it has taken over the team.

Dennis Murphy, league president, said Wednesday the Cougars' contest against the Cleveland Crusaders tonight had been postponed and that an announcement would be made today concerning "the status of the team."

"It's no secret that the Chicago franchise hasn't been setting the world on fire," a league spokesman said. "Things have to be done."

Stapleton said the Cleveland game was postponed because of financial problems and "getting arranged and getting things set." He also said he did not think that the league would take over the Cougars.

Asked if he and his backers, Cougars goalie Dave Dryden and center Ralph Backstrom, planned to buy the team, Stapleton said, "It looks favorable that we might. Until everything is signed I really can't say anything."

Walter Kaiser, president of the team, would not comment on the announcement, and his brother Jordan, also part owner, was not available for comment.

The Cougars are presently in third place in the East Division of the WHA with 11 wins and 18 losses.

There was also rumor that sagging attendance may force the Cougars to seek an arena other than the old Amphitheatre on the city's near Southwest Side.

Stapleton said he was sure the Cougars would stay in Chicago "or I should say the Chicago area." One of the sites reportedly under consideration is the Omni 41 arena at nearby Schererville, Ind., which seats about 4,500—more seats than have been filled at recent Cougars games.

The team faces the accumulation of numerous unpaid bills, and legal negotiations with the suburb of Rosemont for a new 18,000-seat arena have been tied up in a legal battle over the contract.

Predicts Big Year for Allen later—if Allen reports to the Braves.

Allen has insisted he will not report to Atlanta. But Tanner thinks otherwise. "I think he will change his mind," the White Sox manager said, "because he likes baseball. In that Atlanta park, he will break all kinds of records. The Atlanta park has a low fence and Allen's balls will fly out of there. The balls that would be doubles and triples in other parks will be homers there."

Rose Bowlers Resume Workouts

PASADENA, Calif. (UPI) — Both USC and its New Year's Day Rose Bowl opponent, the Ohio State Buckeyes, were slated to resume practice this afternoon following brief training breaks for the Christmas holidays.

John McKay's Trojans, most of whom live in California, had no workouts Tuesday or Christmas Day. Woody Hayes took most of his 60 Buckeyes to the Balboa Bay Club

Wednesday for a day of tennis, pool, sauna baths and strolls along the beach.

"Christmas is a very lonely day for boys who are away from family and friends," Hayes explained as the reason for the outing.

The Buckeyes were slated for a trip to Catalina Island today. The squad was to return to Citrus College by late afternoon for a workout.

Pick Starters For East-West

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The East-West squads today announced their starting lineups for the annual Shrine game at Stanford Stadium Saturday afternoon.

Both teams scheduled a short morning practice and then the players took time off to be guests at Marine World in Redwood City.

On Christmas Day East, Coach Bo Schembechler put his squad through some kicking and offense maneuvers. He noted the West had the day off and said, "We thought about going by their hotel and singing some Christmas carols."

Donchez Going Back

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (UPI) — Tom Donchez, Penn State's leading rusher, is looking forward to his second appearance in the Cotton Bowl.

"I'm really looking forward to going back to Dallas," said Donchez. "We had a great time the last time we were there."

The Nittany Lions beat the Longhorns 30-6, holding them to two field goals. Donchez started against Texas because Franco Harris, now with the Pittsburgh Steelers, was hampered by injuries.

Donchez, ranked ninth on Penn State's career rushing list with 1,422 yards, gained 880 yards in 195 carries during 1974. He also led the Lions in scoring with 48 points and tied for the team lead in receiving with 17 catches for 176 yards.

Battery Guarantee

If Battery proves defective due to electrical failure and will not hold a charge, we will replace it free of charge within 90 days of purchase; after 90 days we will replace it with a new battery charging only for the period of ownership. Your monthly charge for ownership will be computed by dividing the current selling price at the time of return, less trade-in, by the number of months of guarantee.

High Voltage means straight-through-the-partition cell connectors deliver more initial starting power than an otherwise identical battery with up-and-over cell connectors.

Check specifications below before you buy any battery. Especially important is cold cranking power which measures a battery's ability to start a car in cold weather.

The Outdoorsman

What does the future hold for American anglers? One forecaster, John O. Carter, says his crystal ball shows new laws, higher permit fees, and much that will depend on the sportsmen themselves. Carter gives his long-range views in his story "How's Your Future as a Fisherman?" featured in the January issue of Outdoor Life magazine.

The bad news is about increased fishing pressure, declining access, and the continuing destruction of waterways for irrigation or other purposes.

But Carter also sees many good things in angling's future: new hybrid fish being bred for optimum growth under a variety of conditions, new fish-stocking programs that may yield results rivaling the spectacular comeback of the Great Lakes as a sportfishing attraction.

The article also examines the explosive issues of a proposed 200-mile offshore limit to foreign commercial fishing in U.S. territorial waters and a proposed fishing license for saltwater sportsmen.

Carter thinks many factors in fishing's future will be decided in the political arena. He urges sportsmen to become politically active and he cites a newly-formed lobbying group, the American League of Anglers, a giant step toward government recognition of fishermen and their needs.

The Wawarsing Sportsmen's Bulletin has an interesting item attributed to United Press International dealing with the availability of guns—in Italy. Fantastic.

The UPI story says that buying a pistol, rifle or a machinegun in Italy is child's play. And many of the buyers are little more than children, the police report.

"All you have to do is go to certain neighborhoods in Rome, Milan and Turin or Naples and discreetly spread the word you are interested in a gun," a police source told UPI. "Then you just wait. Once they are satisfied you are not a policeman, you can get a 7.65 Beretta for $100 or $150 or a P38 for $150 to $300."

Police said the incredible availability of guns, some of them left over from World War II and others smuggled in by sea or over the Swiss border, is one of the main reasons for a crime wave that has made bank and postoffice robberies a daily occurrence.

It has also provided a steady supply of armaments for urban guerilla groups of the right and left who killed 20 persons this year in bombings of an anti-Fascist demonstration in Brescia and a RomeMunich train.

"Italy ranks first in illegal traffic of small firearms, followed by Turkey, Germany, the United States and France," the Turin newspaper La Stampa said recently quoting Interpol sources.

Italian official statistics show illegal weapons found by police between 1945 and 1971 included 191 artillery pieces, 1,077 mortars and rocket launchers, 6,006 machine guns; 225, 218 rifles, 84,414 pistols, 424,362 hand grenades, 2,740,542 pounds of explosives and more than 35 million rounds of ammunition.

Most of that was war material left over from World War II. But long after one would have expected that source to have dried up, finds were continuing.

In 1972-73 and the first quarter of 1975, police found one cannon, five mortars, 14 rocket launchers, 57 machine guns, 189 submachine guns, 16,427 rifles, 11,318 explosives, 136 miles of fuse and 6.5 million rounds of ammunition.

Not all prehistoric creatures are extinct. At least four of them are still alive, inhabiting streams and lakes of the continent.

Sturgeon, gar, paddlefish and bowfin are all primitive fish that represented the last lineage of distinct families of aquatic families long vanished from earth. While the paddlefish and bowfin are sole survivors of their family trees in this country, sturgeon and gar are represented by seven and five species, respectively, still living in North America.

Sturgeon, for example, are considered a fine flavored fish when smoked, and their roe is eagerly sought to be prepared as caviar. They are widely distributed throughout North American lakes and streams, although their numbers have declined in recent years.

Jimmy's Big Worry: That Small Bush Fly

MELBOURNE, Australia (UPI) — A small bush fly caused Wimbledon champion Jimmy Connors more worry than his opponent, junior Chris Kachel, in the opening round of the Australian Tennis Championships at Kooyong Stadium Thursday.

Connors brushed aside Kachel 7-5, 6-2, 6-4 but was less successful in his battle with the bushfly.

"That damn thing, it sat around my head for the entire match and even changed ends with me," Connors said. The American, self-described as arrogant, displayed all the attributes of an tennis gentleman as he ripped through the young local player. There were no tantrums and no gamesmanship as he went about demolishing Kachel.

Connors was asked if he was going to watch Australian John Newcombe, who followed Connors' match on center court.

"What for?" I'll worry about Newcombe if I get to the final. Then maybe I'll have a look at him," said Connors.

TARKENTON (L), GRANT

Clark Seeks First Pass

LONG BEACH, Calif. (UPI) — Al Clark, speedy Ram cornerback, is looking for his first reception of the year and thinks he may grab one when Los Angeles meets Minnesota Sunday.

A starter in only the last five games, Clark politely defends the Ram secondary from criticism in the news media.

"I don't think all the criticism has been justified,"

Thomas Foresees Hard Time

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Left cornerback J. T. Thomas of the Pittsburgh Steelers figures he is going to have a hard time defending Oakland's Fred Biletnikoff in Sunday's American Football Conference playoff game at Oakland.

"Last week against Buffalo, I had Ahmad Rashad man-to-man almost all day," said Thomas. "Now he's big, strong and super quick. Speed is his thing."

"But Biletnikoff's entirely different. He's not very big and he's not too fast, but his moves are out of this world. That's his thing—moves. I haven't covered a receiver all year who does that as well or as often as he does."

"Mean" Joe Greene, the Steelers' All-Pro defensive tackle, says Oakland's defense should be in for a rough afternoon because Pittsburgh's defense has "arrived."

Greene, unchallenged spokesman of the Steeler defense, says he was convinced of that by Pittsburgh's playoff victory over the Buffalo Bills.

"It was the day Terry Bradshaw proved to everybody that he had finally become a man and our offensive leader."

"Last Sunday was a big day in our history," said the Texas native.

says the 26-year-old native of Bogalusa, La. "We couldn't be that bad or we wouldn't have been winning consistently. Statistically, we finished ahead of a lot of secondaries around the league."

During their 10-4 regular season, the Rams intercepted 22 passes. Strong safety Dave Elmendorf and cornerback Charlie Stukes each grabbed seven.

"I still haven't made an interception this season but it'll come," says Clark with his eye on the Viking game for the NFC championship.

"That's going to be a helluva game. It's going to be a real war. Minnesota has a great football team but so do we."

"Fran Tarkenton is smart and he's tough to deal with. But if I promise you the secondary will be ready for the challenge. We're used to playing in adversity. And I think we've now shown we can overcome it."

Clark, 6 feet and 180, has been timed in 4.5 seconds for 40 yards. He's an elusive runner and has been used on kick returns by the Rams. He moved around fast in college — from Grambling to Northern Arizona State and finally to Eastern Michigan.

With Elmendorf and Stukes, he and Bill Simpson, a rookie from Michigan State who was a second round draft choice, round out the regular secondary. In "pass prevent" situations Eddie McMillan and-or Steve Preece may move in to help.

When the Rams beat Washington 19-10 last Sunday to win their first playoff game in 23 years, Simpson killed the final Redskin drive with an interception in the end zone. Linebackers Isiah Robertson and Jack Reynolds also intercepted passes in that one. Robertson's was the biggie—he ran the ball back 59 yards for a TD.

Ron Smith Battling the Odds

OAKLAND (UPI) — Oakland Raider Ron Smith hopes that after Sunday's clash with the Pittsburgh Steelers, he will still be among the thin ranks of pro football players who have never had a serious injury.

The Raiders downed the Steelers 17-0 in regular season play and battle them next in an American Football Conference playoff game.

Oakland Coach John Madden has praised Smith's run-backs in the win over Pittsburgh. Smith, a punt and kickoff returner, set up a touchdown with a 47-yard punt return and also had a 41-yard kickoff return.

"I'm not a dirt-and-fly guy," Smith says. "I try to get all the yardage I can but a crippled man is no use to his team."

Smith says he uses his blockers and plans ahead for likely holes "but if stoppage is inevitable, I don't stand there as a target."

Smith and his teammates sandwiched their Christmas celebrating around a three-hour workout Wednesday.

"I told the guys last week Christmas would be canceled if we beat Miami," Madden said half-kiddingly as the team went through offensive drills.

Oakland advanced to the AFC championship game Saturday by edging the two-time defending champion Dolphins, 28-26, in a hectic finish.

With the exception of perennial All-Pro defensive back Willie Brown, Madden pronounced his team ready for the step before the Super Bowl. Brown was listed as a doubtful performer because of a nagging leg injury.

Quarterback Ken Stabler, who threw the game-winning touchdown pass against the Dolphins with 26 seconds left, enjoyed a double celebration off the field. In addition to exchanging Christmas gifts, the southpaw slinger from Alabama also celebrated his 29th birthday.

Ivory's '100' Finest Feat In Track

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Even when it finally happened, it was a shock. Especially considering the man who did it. The world's first nine-flat 100-yard dash was not turned in by Valery Borzov, Russia's double gold medal winner at the Munich Olympics of 1972. Neither was it done by wonderfully talented Steve Williams or powerful Tennessee freshman Reggie Jones, considered the best bets to regain the world's sprint supremacy for America at the Montreal Games in '76.

On May 11, 1974, at Knoxville, Tenn., journeyman Ivory Crockett, the 1969 and '70 National AAU 100 winner, shaved one tenth of a second off the global mark first set in '63 by Bob Hayes and later equalled by a host of others; Harry Jerome, Jim Hines, Charlie Greene, John Carlos, Willie McGee and the brilliant Williams.

"I wanted to cry, I wanted to laugh," the 25-year-old IBM sales representative and former Southern Illinois sprinter said. "I didn't know which I wanted to do first. It was simply overwhelming, a great feeling."

Crockett, a 5-foot-8, 147-pounder, averaged 22.73 miles an hour in his history-setting race.

However, Crockett, rated only the No. 10 sprinter in the world in '73, wasn't a factor at the National AAU track and field championships at Los Angeles June 21-22, Williams, competing for San Diego State, won the 100-meter dash in a world-record equalling time of 9.9 with Jamaica's Don Quarrie second in 10.0 and Jones third in 10.1. Crockett was seventh in 10.2.

In a dual meet against Russia at Durham, N.C., Reggie Jones was the sprint star, winning the 100 and 200 meters and anchoring the 400 meter relay team as the U.S. men downed the Soviets, 117-102. However, Russia's powerful women's team defeated the U.S. 90-67, and that gave the USSR an overall margin of 192-184 for its ninth victory against two defeats and a tie in the international series.

The year saw 1973's No. 1 track and field performer in the world, 31 year old middle distance star Ben Jipcho of Kenya, turn pro and dominate the second year of the International Track Association season.

There was plenty of speed left among the a maters, though. Filbert Bayi of Tanzania turned in a fabulous 1,500-meter run, a world record 3:32.2, Feb. 2 at Christchurch, N.Z., in the British Commonwealth Games. Bayi obliterated Jim Ryun's 6½ year old world record of 3:33.1. And the non-winning times were stupendous, too. In only his third international class metric mile of his career, young New Zealander John Walker also broke Ryun's 1,500 record with a 3:32.5 clocking.

Ryun, still competing on the pro track trail, knows it's just a matter of time before his 3:51.1 mile record goes, too. And one of the runners who could break it is an American, North Carolina's Tony Waldorf. He moved into the No. 5 place on the all-time world list with a brilliant 3:53.2 in winning the Ben Granklin Mile at the Penn Relays April 27. His 3:53.2 mile was the equivalent of a 3:35.9 1,500-meter clocking.

Waldorf, who claims to be still just a country boy, ran the fastest indoor mile in history, a 3:55.0, at San Diego Feb. 17. The slender, modest Waldorf admitted, "I really didn't think I could run that fast."

Poland's Irena Szewinska was the No. 1 women's track and field athlete in '74. It wasn't even close.

She set women's world marks of 22.0 in the 200-meter dash and 49.9 in the 400 and had the best time in the world for a woman at 100 meters, 10.9. She was the 100 (11.13) and 200 (22.51) winner at her European championships.

Borzov, the star at Munich in '72 but a disappointment in '73, showed he wasn't through in '74. Although beaten by Jones in the US-USSR meet, Borzov had no real difficulty at the European championships in dispatching a field that contained no less than eight co-holders of the European 100 meter record of 10.0, four of whom made the final. He won the 100 in 10.2 and then skipped the 200. "This year I'm not as fast or as strong as I was in Munich," the four-time European champion said after his victory. "But I've never had a bad start in important meets."

Asked about the Montreal Olympics, Borzov, a 24-year-old graduate student in physical education at Kiev, said, "I'll be better in 1976."

The Soviet Union got a world record in the hammer throw from one of its bulky citizens, Aleksey Spiridonov, a 23-year-old who uses four turns in his event. His 251-6 broke a mark of 251-4 held by an East German, Reinhard Theimer, set earlier in '74. Spiridonov won the European championships at 243-3.

The winning hammer throw at the National AAU meet at Los Angeles was Steve DeAutremont's 226-6. The United States is far behind in this event.

Little Rick Wohlhuter, who could be the 800-meter favorite in the '76 Olympics, was the No. 1 half-miler in the world for the second straight year in '74, breaking his own 880-yard world mark at Eugene, Ore., by half a second with a 1:44.1 time June 8.

Controversy Hit College Football

ARA PARSEGHIAN

Irish, Nittany Lions Top Army Opponents

WEST POINT

Notre Dame, Penn State and North Carolina, all headed for post-season bowl games, dominate selections to Army's 1974 all-Opponent teams. Notre Dame placed five players on the offensive and defensive units, while Penn State and North Carolina each had four players named.

The announcement, made by head coach Homer Smith, reflected a vote by members of the 1974 Army varsity. "This was a fun thing for us to do after the season had been concluded, yet we feel the selections are very indicative of the type of high-class competition we were up against this fall. I'm sure we will want to do this after each season, too," commented Coach Smith.

Representing Notre Dame on the all-Opponent teams are fullback Wayne Bullock, center Mark Brenneman, line-backer Greg Collins, defensive tackle Kevin Nosbusch and defensive end Steve Niehaus. Bullock enjoyed a particularly fine game against the Cadets, scoring two touchdowns while rushing for 112 yards.

Penn State, who will meet Baylor in the Cotton Bowl on New Year's Day, had three players named to the defensive unit and one to the offensive team. Tackle Mike Hartenstein, end Greg Murphy and halfback Jim Bradley were defensive choices, while tackle Jeff Bleamer was chosen on the offense.

Quarterback Chris Kupec, who riddled the Army secondary for four touchdowns while completing 10 of 12 attempts for 214 yards, was named to the signal-calling berth. Other North Carolina players selected were wide receiver Jimmy Jerome, who caught three passes for 78 yards and one score, offensive guard Ken Huff and offensive tackle John Frerotte.

Three other schools — Tulane, California and Duke — each had two players selected.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Alabama, Oklahoma and Baylor created the biggest news on the field during the 1974 college football campaign, but the cheers of the crowd were somewhat suffled by a season marked with off-the-field scandal, controversy and economic misfortune.

Alabama, which had won UPI's national championship in 1973, emerged as a possible repeater for national honors with a perfect 11-0 mark and held the No. 1 ranking entering a Jan. 1, 1975, Orange Bowl match with Notre Dame. A victory by the Crimson Tide over the Irish probably would clinch the national championship for Coach Bear Bryant's troops. Notre Dame, which defeated Alabama in the Sugar Bowl last Dec. 31, provided two of the more dramatic stories of the season. The first occurred before the season began when six players were expelled from because of a sex scandal.

The Irish, expected to challenge for national honors before the incident, never fully recovered and finished 9-2. The entire season weighed so heavily on Coach Ara Parseghian that he announced his resignation to take effect after the Orange Bowl game. Parseghian had served for 11 years as head coach of the Irish, lifting them from the doldrums back into national prominence.

The only major college team other than Alabama to go through the season with a perfect record was Oklahoma. But the Sooners were denied a ranking by the UPI Board of Coaches because of their NCAA probationary status, thereby touching off a controversy that had nationwide impetus.

Oklahoma, riding out the second year of a two-year NCAA probation imposed because of recruiting violations, also was ineligible for television appearances and post-season bowl consideration during the 1974 campaign. However, the Sooners soared to the Big Eight Conference title and also finished as the nation's leader in scoring (43 points per game) and total offense (507.7).

With Oklahoma out of the ratings picture from the outset, the battle for No. 1 emerged as a race between Ohio State and Alabama. Ohio State held the top spot for the first eight weeks, then was dealt a stunning upset by unheralded Michigan State and Alabama moved in as No. 1. Ohio State, which finished the regular season ranked No. 2, still has a chance to nail down the brass ring if it can defeat Southern California in the Rose Bowl and Notre Dame can upset Alabama.

The greatest comeback story of the year was provided by Baylor University. The Bears, long a doormat in the Southwest Conference, pulled one of the more dramatic turnarounds in college history by ending Texas' seven-year reign as SWC champs and earning a trip to the Cotton Bowl for the first time ever. Baylor's reversal from 2-9 in 1973 to 8-3 earned Grant Teaff the honor of being named Coach of the Year by UPI.

It was pretty much the same old story in the Far West, Midwest and the East, however. Southern California, as expected, won the Pacific Eight crown and will play in the Rose Bowl for the seventh time in nine years and Ohio State, which beat Michigan in its season finale to tie the Wolverines for the Big Ten title, was selected to meet the Trojans on New Year's Day for the third straight year.

Penn State once again was the power in the East, winning the Lambert Trophy for the fourth consecutive year. The Nittany Lions will meet Baylor in the Cotton Bowl on New Year's Day.

Ohio State reaped the bulk of the individual honors, naming five players to the UPI All-America squad. The Buckeyes' Archie Griffin, a junior running back, was named UPI's Player of the Year and also received the coveted Heisman Trophy, presented annually to the best player in the nation.

Randy White of Maryland, a muscular defensive tackle, was named Lineman of the Year and also was awarded the Outland Trophy, which goes annually to the country's best lineman.

In the college division ranks, Louisiana Tech was named the UPI national champion, based on regular season play, but Central Michigan won the second annual NCAA Division II championship, beating Delaware handily in the Camellia Bowl.

As the year drew to a close many of the nation's colleges were faced with a new crisis. This one involved economics and the high-cost of competing.

After Sunday's games, the teams will be split into four-team A and B Divisions, with respective titles to be contested through three rounds of intra-divisional play, resulting in a 16-game pennant race, with playoffs abandoned.

The A league will consist of the Fire Department, Ma Bells, Mahogany Ridge and Flower Garden. Playing in the B loop will be Keeley's Korner, Mark IV Printing, Undertakers and the Flyers.

WHERE ECONOMY ORIGINATES

Ring in the New Year, Ring up Great Savings!

THE FIRST STEPS OF OPERATION AWARE.

1. AN EARLY WARNING SYSTEM ON PRICE INCREASES: THE AWARE LIST.

Every week we will voluntarily post a list of price increases such as those received from manufacturers a full seven days before we actually change our price. That gives you one week to purchase at the old price—subject, of course, to product availability. You'll also find "Be Aware" shelf tags on many frequently purchased items, with the day of the price increase right on the tag. Of course, the Aware List won't include perishables like meat, eggs or fresh fruit and vegetables, where markets fluctuate daily; items controlled by law; or advertised specials. So before you plan your next week's shopping list, check this week's Aware List.

2. A PRICE FREEZE ON A&P PRIVATE LABELS.

A & P voluntarily has put a ceiling on over 1000 A & P Products. (Smaller stores may not regularly stock all items, but a list is available in all stores.) That means prices will go no higher at least until the end of the year, on many products that you use every day... bread, cheese, pasta, coffee, non-fat dry milk, frozen potatoes, rice, tuna fish, fruit cocktail, frozen dinners and canned peas and corn. Advertised specials below the freeze prices will still be offered. We've put the freeze on our private labels because they represent the best values in our stores. And we'll hold down the prices, even if our ingredient costs go up.

3. OUR 13 POINT CONSUMER PROTECTION POLICY.

It's our continuing commitment to making you an Aware shopper by reminding you of what every A & P store owes you and by informing you of ways to get the most for your money. Look for the signs going up inside A & P stores spelling out all the protection A & P gives you:

1. Guaranteed Satisfaction
2. Exceptional Value

Better Health Through Better Housing in Five Years

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A government report says the way to better health for Americans over the next five years may be through better housing and safer working conditions.

The report envisions spending about $25 billion from now until 1980 to curb tooth decay, begin projects to cope with mental health hazards, and build better hospital facilities for those who are financially distressed.

"Poor health is, in considerable part at least, the result of the low incomes of individuals rather than its cause," said the report from the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

Those with low incomes, it added, have less access to medical and mental health care.

The Forward Plan for Health is basically a strategy for spending about $5 billion dollars each year through 1980.

But it also says the country may not be ready for national health insurance and that too much attention has been given to heart disease and cancer research.

Among its priorities: —An $8 million national fluoridation program to curb tooth decay.

—New mental health projects to cope with "such social stresses as the influence of violence on television, racism, crime and delinquency, poverty and suicide."

—A multimillion dollar drive to reduce by 10 per cent cancer contracted on the job and because of the job.

—A redirection of federal construction funds toward health facilities treating patients who do not require expensive beds and on modernizing big city hospitals.

But giving everyone access to poor or highly variable health care through a national health insurance scheme "would be a hollow victory," it said.

HEW has developed a plan, announced by former President Richard M. Nixon, to require employers to offer health insurance to workers. President Ford said he supported the idea but that "Congress will have to join with me in cutting federal expenditures before we can afford this program."

Although it concedes some type of insurance reform is likely, the blueprint is cautious.

Before a national health insurance plan can work, it said, the other problems of the report must be dealt with —escalating costs, shortages of medical workers in rural and slum areas, and poor state and local planning of hospitals and other medical facilities.

The plan also says research has been concentrated improperly on the nation's leading killers in diseases.

"As a result of the designation of cancer, and more recently heart and lung diseases, as high health priorities (with attendant large increases in funds for these programs), important fundamental, crosscutting areas of knowledge have not received the support they merit," the document says.

"Advances in fields such as immunology, virology, genetics, endocrinology and the molecular biology of disease hold the key to the lock on many important health problems facing the nation today. Progress in these areas is essential...."

Children's Letters to the President

OMAHA, Neb. (UPI) — What does a fifth grade pupil think about when taking pen in hand to write President Ford?

Inflation, price of sugar, amnesty and unemployment occupied the thoughts of children at suburban Irvington elementary school when they wrote the President.

Mrs. Joann Wickman, their teacher, said the youngsters were particularly aware of rising sugar prices and their implication on the price of soda and cookies.

"I hate inflation. It's just awful," said Daphne Ensor in her letter. "Things are so expensive."

Steven Shaw wrote, "I wish you would lower prices so we could have lower food prices."

"See, many people in America don't get much for what they work," Steven informed Ford. "And poor people, if they don't have much money, they can't get anything. So please do it for America and around the world."

Carol Sanders said she didn't believe the administration's amnesty program was fair "because my Dad went to war, and when he came home he was shot in the arm and my Mom cried."

James Donald George told Ford he liked the President's speeches but "can you try to cut them down, because the way you'll get to us is by your hart (sic)."

"I know it's not easy," George said, "but try."

Danny Kloss noted that 30 employees where his father works have been laid off, while Linda Jensen said she was concerned that her father was moved to a night shift.

"Gas has gone up too," said Barbara Meeks. "We have not ridden in our big car in a month."

Big Toe Now Thumb

Doctor at Hotel Dieu Hospital in Montreal shows close up view of Jean Desjardins new 'thumb,' transplanted in an 11-hour operation by seven doctors, performed for the first time in Canada. The thumb was formerly the big toe of his right foot. The procedure was first performed in England in 1969. Doctors say prognosis for a complete recovery is excellent and he will be able to return to his factory job shortly. (UPI)

Volunteer Army Profile

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Pentagon says only 5 per cent of the volunteers recruited by the armed forces in November had below average intelligence, the best monthly result since such records were started 23 years ago.

Recruiting officials have long said that the poor economy and rising unemployment rate would help recruiting, but there was no statistical proof until now. Some locales with rising unemployment have shown no improvement in recruitment, they said.

Officials said recruiting was vastly improved this year because they learned from mistakes and problems encountered in the first year without the draft. The services also have more recruits than ever before.

The Army in particular had been heavily criticized for lowering its IQ standards and for taking too many poor blacks.

Last month, 22 per cent of the Army's recruits were black — the lowest per cent in any month since the draft ended almost two years ago.

The Army said it will place no quotas on blacks but would concentrate its recruiters in white areas to improve the racial representation in the service. But now with fewer black recruits at a time of rising unemployment the service may be opening itself to criticism for taking too few blacks.

Army statistics show that since the current fiscal year began in July, only 14 per cent of the Army's recruits have been below average — compared to 18 per cent the previous year.

Officials have said the ideal was 17-20 per cent because that is the proportion of "nonchallenging jobs" in the service. Last month 7 per cent of the Army's recruits were below average.

The Army had put a limit of 12 per cent on such recruits for November, so the actual result was far better than hoped for. By comparison, since 1962 the below average group has ranged from 17 per cent to 28 per cent of the Army's each year.

Recruiting and re-enlistment results have been so good that Army Secretary Howard H. Callaway earlier halved the recruiting goals for December. The Army was already 2.5 per cent over its goals for new recruits and 35 per cent over its objective for reenlisting first term soldiers since July.

'Dial-a-Prayer' Business Doubles

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UPI) — Twice as many people are telephoning for a prayer these days and Dale Radke thinks it's a sign of the times.

Radke is executive secretary of the Greater Milwaukee Federation of Lutheran Churches-Missouri Synod. He said calls to the federation's "Dial-A-Prayer" service have more than doubled in a year.

The most dramatic increase came in August, right around the time of President Nixon's resignation.

"On Aug. 7 and 8, when we didn't know whether we were going to have any government at all, the calling volume jumped to 300 a day," Radke said.

"It has stayed so high since then that we've had to add another recorded answering service."

Radke, a layman, said it appears people are "looking for something to lift their spirits."

"When people are in a crisis situation, when you have this inflation thing, the joblessness, and everything looks bad, people tend to get down on their knees more often," he said.

He said that a year ago in August the total calls logged were 2,694. In August this year 'he total was 6,458. During November, he said, there were 6,687 calls, compared with 2,537 the previous November.

He said the actual totals may have been higher, but the federation moved in April and had to get a new telephone number. The new number, however, is one easily remembered. It's GOD-LOVE.

When it became necessary to add the second phone, Radke was told there was no money for it in the budget. So he made an appeal on the recording and raised the money in less than six weeks.

One 15-year-old sent $100 — part of the money he had earned on a summer job, Radke said.

"God's been good to me," the boy wrote. "And I made good money so I want to share my earnings with the Lord."

'Rent' Topped $60,000 In Mexican Prison

SAN LEANDRO, Calif. (UPI) — Ralph Fong, a real estate broker, says he spent more than $60,000 to stay alive six years in a Mexican prison where he was put for a crime he didn't commit.

"In a Mexican jail you can get by if you have money," Fong said in an interview Wednesday. "If you have no money, heaven help you."

The 45-year-old businessman has filed a $600,000 federal suit against his accusers, the Banco Internacional, a Mexican bank doing business in California.

After being accused by the bank of attempting to sell stolen securities, Fong was jailed four years waiting for a hearing.

He finally appeared in court and drew a six-year sentence which was later overturned by a judge who called the incarceration a "total injustice."

Fong said his time was served in Lecumberri Prison outside Mexico City, a facility inmates called the "Black Palace." He was released last year after being held from Dec. 8, 1967 to Oct. 24, 1973.

During the prison time, Fong had to ask his mother to send him $200 a month so he could afford to buy good treatment.

"I paid $300 a month rent for my room. Food cost about $150 a month. I had to pay for lights, laundry and showers."

In his suit, filed by San Francisco attorney Helen Culiner, the Banco Internacional is charged with negligence, malicious prosecution and conspiracy. Fong asked $300,000 general and $300,000 punitive damages.

Bernice Bede Osol:

Your Astrograph

Friday—Dec. 27, 1974
ARIES (March 21-April 19) You have no patience with people who don't grasp your ideas fast. Part of the reason is that you're not explaining clearly.
TAURUS (April 20-May 20) You're not apt to handle your resources as wise as you should today. An impulsive move now will prove very costly later.

GEMINI (May 20-June 20) You're relying too heavily on the wrong people to do things for you. Little will be accomplished with your present cohorts.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Something that you promised another you would take care of, can no longer be avoided. Glib excuses won't get you by.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You could easily be pressured into something speculative by a friend. Your better judgment should warn you not to gamble with it now.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You're a bit too anxious to impress those you have dealings with. This will lead you to exaggerate in order to hide your shortcomings.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Don't offer advice unless it is explicitly requested. If asked, be sure you know what you're talking about or you'll lead the inquirer astray.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Continue to move cautiously in business and financial matters. A conservative and prudent outlook is a must for you at present. SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Your attitude is a bit too independent and impulsive to fit comfortably into partnerships or teamwork situations today.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Your powers of concentration where your work is concerned aren't all they should be. Think only of the task at hand.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You're too apt to take chances that you shouldn't. The returns you're looking for won't be found in high-risk areas.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Don't make excuses for the bad behavior of those in your charge. If your discipline is to lax, the same offense will be repeated again.

Dec. 27, 1974

Opportunities worth exploring will come to you this coming year through a close contact. You may fail to recognize their merit if you are not very discerning. (NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.)

his king and ace; noted that West followed with the deuce to show five hearts and proceeded to lead a fourth club. Joe could not shut out West's queen of trumps and wound up one trick short.

"Deleted, deleted," swore Joe. "Clubs break 7-2 and West holds both the queen and nine of trumps."

We aren't sure just how Joe should have played the hand, but he should have made it. Had he Analyzed the lead and Reviewed the bidding he could have assumed the 7-2 club break.

After that analysis Joe could have played the hand very simply. He could cash his ace-king of trumps to leave West with the queen. Then three rounds of diamonds with the third being ruffed. Now a low club would be ruffed and a club or heart discarded on a good diamond. West would ruff and the defense would be held to just three tricks.

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Hard Luck Joe took his ace of clubs, ruffed a club, returned to his hand with a high trump and tried to ruff his last club, but West foiled that plan by ruffing first with the nine spot. Then West led the four of hearts. East took

Coal Miners Back, Steel Production Returning to Normal

United Press International

Steel production, hard hit by a prolonged coal strike, was expected to return to normal soon as coal miners return from a Christmas holiday at the end of a six-week walkout.

The final threat to all-out production was postponed for at least 60 days while the United Mine Workers union and the Western Pennsylvania Coal Haulers Association work on a contract dispute.

In a related development, Bethlehem Steel Corp., the nation's No. 2 steel producer, was expected to announce today whether it would follow U.S. Steel's lead and roll back price increases.

Bethlehem announced a 2.5 per cent increase in rolled steel products shortly before U.S. Steel—the No. 1 producer—agreed to a rollback Monday night under White House pressure.

Wheeling-Pittsburgh Steel Corp. also is planning to increase pipe and plate products by 5.5 per cent.

Bethlehem said its increase would cover only one-third of wage and materials cost increases which occurred during the past five months.

The U.S. Steel cutback involved approximately 20 per cent of the announced increase, a spokesman said.

That represented a drop from 4.7 per cent to 4 per cent in prices calculated on the "full product range," although the initial increase affected only two-thirds of the firm's products and was believed to be closer to 8 per cent.

About 550 UMW coal-hauling truck drivers in western Pennsylvania agreed Tuesday to a 60-day "cooling off" period while their union leaders try to convince their employers to sign the national Bituminous Coal Operators Association contract.

That pact was ratified by 120,000 UMW members after a month-long strike, but UMW construction workers kept almost half the nation's mines idled for two more weeks until they got a contract.

The coal haulers refused to sign the agreement on grounds it does not cover problems of the trucking industry. They want a separate contract with an exemption from royalty payments such as those paid into the UMW Welfare and Retirement fund on a per-ton basis by coal operators.

Ford Combining Business With Pleasure

VAIL, Colo. (UPI)—President Ford makes no bones about how he loves skiing. He gets a light in his eyes when he talks about how great it is — "way up there."

Since his arrival here last Sunday, he has spent a total of nine hours on the glistening, snow-blanketed slopes in subfreezing temperatures.

Wearing a neon-bright orange parka with a white and orange striped wool hat, black slacks and red plastic ski shoes, Ford skied from the 11,000-foot Vail Mountain summit on Christmas Day for two and one half hours.

He jokingly complained about the pile of work Donald Rumsfeld, his chief of staff, had laid out for him and he dug into some of it Wednesday afternoon. "Scrooge came with Santa Claus when Rumsfeld came," he said.

Before he returns to Washington on Jan. 2, the chief executive must cut through a stack of more than 100 bills, including the trade measure which provides most favored nation treatment for the Soviet Union.

He was also scheduled to tackle a "voluminous" report on charges the Central Intelligence Agency conducted a spy system against American citizens during the Nixon era.

Ford also summoned his chief energy and economic advisors to confer with him Friday and Saturday on several major documents he must submit to the Democratic-controlled Congress in January.

Among them are the State of the Union Address, which aides forecast will be "grim" on the economy, energy shortages and high tariffs.

The weekend sessions were called to bring Ford up to date on the deepening recession combined with inflation and the related rising costs and dwindling supplies of energy.

Ford wants to study a 50-page CIA report which is being flown to him from Washington and is based on a hurried inquiry he ordered following a New York Times report that the CIA illegally engaged in domestic surveillance.

He already has been reassured by CIA Director William E. Colby that no such activity is now going on in the spy agency.

Nixon Not Objecting

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Richard Nixon has made no objection to moves by several trustees to dissolve the foundation charged with building a presidential library for him, the Los Angeles Times said Wednesday.

At least eight of the 25 trustees of the Richard M. Nixon Foundation are in favor of giving up plans to build the structure, the Times said.

Only five more votes are needed to get the majority of 13 that would dissolve the foundation.

Although Nixon has no legal control over the foundation, the Times said "those closely associated with the foundation made it clear that a move to dissolve the foundation would not have been made if Mr. Nixon objected."

Patricia Reilly Hitt, former Nixon administration official and vice chairwoman of the board of trustees, said Tuesday she had written the other trustees urging that the foundation be dissolved.

In her letter, Mrs. Hitt, former assistant secretary of Health Education and Welfare, said the foundation's purpose was "the creation and perpetuation of a presidential library and museum for the collection and study of papers and memorabilia of the 37th President of the United States."

"The prospects for being able to carry out that mission in the foreseeable future are unfortunately clouded at this time," she wrote.

When Nixon was pardoned by President Ford, both men agreed that the former chief executive would retain control over his tapes and documents.

The tapes and documents would have been destroyed in 10 years or upon Nixon's death, whichever came first.

However, Congress voted to keep the records under government control.

The foundation currently has a collection of tape recorded reminiscences by those who knew Nixon in the first 30 years of his life. Mrs. Hitt proposed that these be turned over to Nixon's alma mater, Whittier College.

The Whittier College trustees, four of whom, including Mrs. Hitt, are also foundation trustees, voted earlier this month to accept and administer Nixon memorabilia.

According to the Times, Nixon "has been consulted and expressed no objection" to dissolving the project.

The trustees include Herbert W. Kalmbach, imprisoned for collecting illegal Nixon campaign funds, and three Watergate trial defendants — H. Haldeman, John Ehrlichman and John Mitchell.

Watergate Jury Returns to Work

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The 14 women and three men who are the Watergate jury and its alternates have been sequestered in a hotel room since Oct. 11. Today, after seeing their families for Christmas, they go back to court ready to start deliberations.

Final arguments resume today, the trial's 60th day, and the jury may get the case by Friday.

The jurors spent up to eight hours with their families Wednesday, eating Christmas dinner and exchanging gifts in the hotel.

At today's session, William S. Frates was to complete his final arguments on behalf of defendant John D. Ehrlichman. He was to be followed by Thomas S. Green, lawyer for Robert Mardian, and Jacob A. Stein, representing Kenneth Parkinson.

Then Watergate prosecutor James F. Neal will make his final arguments, presiding Judge John J. Sirica will give the charge and the case will go to the jury, but not before Friday at the earliest.

How long the jury will deliberate is, of course, not known. Both prosecutors and defense lawyers have urged the jury to examine for themselves the exhibits, which include many hours of White House tapes.

Both Neal and defense lawyers have focused attention on the prosecution's star witness, former White House Counsel John W. Dean III.

Neal said "good John Dean became mean John Dean" at the White House only after the youthful lawyer began cooperating with prosecutors as the alleged cover-up began unraveling in April 1973.

But John J. Wilson, chief lawyer for H.R. Haldeman; William G. Hundley, lawyer for John Mitchell; and Frates sought to place the blame for Watergate on former White House aides Dean, Charles W. Colson — a Nixon political operative — and Jeb Stuart Magruder, deputy campaign director.

Dean, Colson and Magruder all pleaded guilty to Watergate crimes and all are now in prison.

Launch Station

MOSCOW (UPI)—The Soviet Union launched an unmanned space station today to conduct research on orbital flights, the official Tass news agency said.

Tass reported all equipment aboard the Salyut 4 space station operating normally. It said the capsule was orbiting the earth every 89.1 minutes at a maximum height of 162 miles and a minimum of 131.

Tass said monitoring stations in the Soviet Union and on board the spaceship, known as "Academician Sergei Korolev," are tracking the flight.
